COLOMBIA.

COLON SURRENDERED TO FORCES OF ALBAN.

Liberals and Their Arms Turned Over Under Stipulation—Americans Assist at Ceremony.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.]

COLON (Colombia) Nov. 29.—[By Central American Cable.] The terms of surrender agreed upon at yesterday's conference, held on board the United States gunboat Marietta, and at which the commanding officers of the Marietta, of the British cruiser Tribune and of the French cruiser Suchet, Lieutenant-Commander McCrea of the Machias, Capt. Perry of the Iowa, Gens. Alban and Jeffries, representing the government of Colombia, and Señor De la Rosa, who represented the Liberal party, were present, are briefly, as follows:

Señor De la Rosa agreed to surrender the Liberal soldiers now at Colon, with their arms, to Capt. Perry at noon today. Capt. Perry, in his turn, agreed to hand over these men and their arms, later in the day, to Gen. Alban, who, in turn, guaranteed life and liberty to all men recently in arms against the Conservative government of Colombia. The surrender of arms was to be bona fide in every respect.

At 11:30 o'clock this morning, a large number of marines and blue jackets from the Iowa, the Marietta and Machias landed at Colon and proceeded to the barracks. Here the arms belonging to the Liberal soldiers were taken over by the Americans, in the presence of Capt. Perry, the commanders of the warships above mentioned, the American, British and French Consuls at Colon, and a large concourse of people who sympathized with the Liberals in their surrender.

The Liberal guard patrolling Colon this morning appeared sad and downcast. The behavior of the men, however, has all along been most praiseworthy, and it is not at all an exaggeration to say that they have gained the respect of a large portion of the Conservative and foreign element.

Later in the day, Gen. Alban, accompanied by officers of the Conservative government of Colon, arrived here and received the surrender of the Liberals representing Gen. Domingo Diaz, whose secretary he is, surrendered himself, and the Liberal troops to the Conservative general, in the presence of Capt. Perry and the naval and consular officers above mentioned.

For years past the harbor of Colon has not been so crowded as it is today. Five men-of-war and several German, Italian and British merchant and passenger steamers, as well as other vessels, are in port. The men-of-war are moored to the wharves. The only flag-bedecked ship in the harbor is the Colombian Conservative gunboat Gen. Pinson. When Gen. Alban received the surrender of the Liberals, the Pinson blew a series of noisy, quick and irregular notes from her foghorn, indicating her joy at the proceedings. She is now lying quite close to the docks. Gen. Alban is on board.

The majority of the American marines and blue jackets have returned to their vessels. The Suchet has landed a detachment of marines on the property of the French Canal Company. American marines are still guarding the piers and the railroad station.

Over 200 men entered the city with Gen. Alban. De la Rosa, on handing Alban his sword, said: "I accept the conditions of the treaty to safeguard the lives and liberty of my soldiers in Colon. As for my brother and myself, we personally decline to accept the conditions of this treaty."

CABLES TO THE CAPITAL.

SURRENDER OF COLON.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The following cablegram was today received at the Navy Department from Capt. Perry of the Iowa:

"COLON, Nov. 29.—Arrangements for surrender today of Colon by Liberal forces have been completed."

Another cablegram has been received at the State Department from Consul-General Gudger, dated at Panama, saying that the Liberals have been defeated, and that the government forces are in possession of Colon.

NO AMERICAN OCCUPATION.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Some of the reports reaching here show there is apprehension on the part of some Colombians on the isthmus, including men of considerable influence, as to the duration of the stay of American marines. It has come to the knowledge of officials here that many evil rumors have been circulated on the isthmus, some of them going to the extent of asserting that the United States forces, having once landed, would not be withdrawn. These reports have led Washington to point out to the Colombians that the peaceful American occupation was temporary, and to emphasize the fact that immediately on the fulfillment of this government's obligation to keep open the traffic, our forces would be debarked and all American authority would be terminated.

This purpose of the authorities here had been made known to those in influence on the isthmus, and has served to allay the fears caused by reports of American occupation.

HERRAN'S INTERPRETATION.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Dr. Herran, the Colombian chargé, said tonight that Gen. Alban will grant nothing short of a complete capitulation by the rebel forces, with all their arms and ammunition. But it is understood, Herran added, that Gen. Alban will give immunity to the persons and private property of those who lay down their arms, and they may be granted leave to depart on parole. They will not be permitted, however, to remove any of their military supplies from Colon, and their parole will prevent their joining any of the scattered bands of Liberals at other points.

CONTEMPTUOUS CASTRO.

ANTAGONIZING THE NATIONS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The State Department has received confirmation of the notification from the Colombian government to Venezuela, that it has terminated diplomatic relations. This came in the shape of a cablegram from Minister Hart. This action is the result of the hasty withdrawal, last August, from the Venezuelan capital of Dr. Rico, the Colombian Minister there. Such a breach does not necessarily mean war, though it is undoubtedly a step in that direction. Venezuela has had several affairs of this kind, some of the European nations withdrawing their representatives from Caracas for long terms, and only a year and a half ago our own government was obliged to give Minister Loomis an indefinite leave of absence from Caracas, as a warning of our dissatisfaction of its attitude in the controversy growing out of the asphalt question.

It is said these manifestations of foreign disapproval have had very little influence on the Venezuelan government. It is a significant fact that this breach is created at the moment when Germany is considering the adoption of compulsory measures to secure the payment by the Venezuelan government of a very heavy financial liability to German citizens.

It has been supposed here that President Castro is proceeding under the theory that the application of the Monroe doctrine would protect him from punitive action by Germany, but the impression among officials here is that this is not well founded.

GEN. CASTRO KILLED.

LED AT BOHIA SOLDADO.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—A dispatch to the Herald from Colon, Colombia, says that Gen. Francisco Castro, who led the government troops at Barbacon bridge, Tuesday, was killed early this (Thursday) morning during an engagement with the insurgent force at Bohia Soldado. Gen. Castro has been serving as second in command of the government force on the isthmus.

BANRIGH LEAVES ANTWERP.

MUNITIONS OF WAR ABOARD.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ANTWERP, Nov. 29.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The steamer Banrigh, which arrived here November 27 from Lobito Bay, Africa, on the 9th inst. was alleged to have on board munitions of war destined for Japan. The Captain of the Banrigh, on the United States Consulate here, declared that the cargo of ammunition on board the steamer was for Colombia.

SAMPSON NOT IN IT.

Bill to Re-create Vice-Admirals.

Secretary Long Preparing New Measure.

Four Senior Rear-Admirals to Reap the Benefit.

Commissioner Conant on Banks in the Philippines—Salt in the Census.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Secretary of the Navy has prepared a draft of a bill to be submitted to Congress, providing for the revival of the grade of vice-admiral, with four numbers in it. The bill provides, also, that the number of rear-admirals shall be reduced from eighteen to fourteen, and that these officers shall have the same rank and pay as major-generals in the army. At present, nine of the eighteen rear-admirals have the rank and pay of brigadier-generals, and the other nine the rank and pay of major-generals.

While it is not so stated in the bill, it is understood to be the purpose of the administration, should the measure become a law, to promote to the grade of vice-admiral the four senior rear-admirals on the active list at that time. The four senior rear-admirals are Howell, Remey, Farquhar and Watson, three of whom saw service in the Spanish-American War, and all in the Civil War. Howell and Remey, each chosen the full number of votes in the board of admirals that met some months ago, will be retired four officers to be promoted will be Remey, Watson, Clark and Higginson. Sampson and Crowninshield are numbers six and seven, respectively, on the list of rear-admirals, but both of them will be retired in February, so that they have no chance of promotion if Congress restricts the vice-admirals' commissions to officers on the active list.

CENSUS AND LEATHER.

INDUSTRY'S INCREASE LARGE.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The Census Bureau has issued a preliminary report regarding leather, tanned, cured and finished, for the United States, showing a total capital of $173,977,427, an increase of 78 per cent. since 1890; 1206 establishments, a decrease of 25 per cent.; average number of wage-earners, 52,109; total wages, $22,591,091; cost of materials used, $155,602,004; value of products, $204,033,127, an increase of 19 per cent.

PHILIPPINE COINAGE.

REPORT BY COMMISSIONER.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Accompanying the annual report of Secretary Gage is a report made by Special Commissioner Charles A. Conant, who was sent to the Philippines to investigate the currency question. His recommendations are submitted to Congress for its action. The most important are:

"That there should be a distinctively Philippine coin of silver, which shall be legal tender for 50 cents in gold, to be called the peso, and to contain 25 grammes of silver. The coin is to be issued in such quantities as trade requires, and sustained at a parity with gold by limitation of the amount coined. The Mexican silver dollar and other coins shall cease to be legal tender after a certain date.

"It also is recommended that national banks in both the Philippines and the United States should have authority to establish branches throughout the islands and in the United States. Power to issue notes should not be extended to any bank having a capital of less than $500,000. Mortgage banks with a capital not less than $1,000,000 are recommended to make loans on real estate. It is recommended that the Treasurer of the United States be authorized to receive deposits from the government of the Philippine Islands, and the treasury of the Philippine Islands may be designated by the Secretary of War as a legal depository of public money."

TAFT ORDERED HOME.

MUST REGAIN HIS HEALTH.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The Secretary of War today issued orders and sent them to Manila, ordering Gov. Taft home on leave of absence, so he can recuperate and regain his health and strength. Gov. Taft is to leave for the United States on the first transport available. At present there are no transports at Manila, but the Kilpatrick is due there from New York in a day or two, and will be ready to sail for home in about ten days.

The Kilpatrick belongs to the New York line, but if Gov. Taft desires to come by Honolulu and does not care to go to New York, the Kilpatrick will be ordered to San Francisco. If the Governor does not care to come on the Kilpatrick, the Grant will be ready to sail about the middle of December, and the Meade will follow the Grant. While in this country, Gov. Taft will be called to Washington to give the committee of Congress information for the necessary legislation for the island.

WOUNDED ON BAMBOO SPIKES.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Adjt.-Gen. Corbin today received the following cablegram from Gen. Chaffee, dated Manila, November 28:

"Lieuts. Feeler and Wetherell, Eighteenth Infantry, badly wounded by bamboo spikes in a pitfall near Carmena, Bohol. Feeler wounded in foot; Wetherell in thigh. Operation necessary to extract sticks. Lieut. Smith slightly hurt."

Lieut. George I. Feeler is a native of New York. He entered the army as a second lieutenant in May, 1898. Second Lieutenants Richard S. Wetherell and Smith were appointed in November last.

GROUNDING OF THE WRIGHT.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The War Department today received the following cablegram from Gen. Chaffee, at Manila, dated yesterday:

"Transport Wright struck on uncharted rock near south end Dasram Island, near entrance to San Juanico, badly injured; resting quietly on port side, 15 feet water in hold, which rises and falls with tide. Smith thinks she may be raised with wrecking vessel, but fears power cannot be obtained. Large part cargo can be saved, in damaged condition. No lives lost."

OPERATION SUCCESSFUL.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

MANILA, Nov. 29.—The operation performed on Gov. Taft this afternoon was successful. He will start for Washington, December 10, to recuperate and to confer with Secretary Root.

RUMORS OF DEATH ARE SET AT REST.

NEWS OF CAPTIVES IN A LETTER FROM DUBNICZA.

Recent Meeting of the Secret Committee Definitely Decided not to Kill the Prisoners, No Matter What Circumstances May Arise in Future.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SOFIA, Nov. 29.—[By Atlantic Cable.] According to a letter dated Dubnicza, November 23, Miss Stone and Mme. Tsilka are still alive. The letter in question further says that at a recent meeting of the committee held in Dubnicza, it was definitely decided not to kill the prisoners under any pretext whatever. Nevertheless, the committee insisted upon the payment of the full amount of the ransom.

A naive suggestion is current in political circles here, to the effect that the United States should force Turkey to pay the remainder of the ransom, and as soon as the prisoners are in safety, force Bulgaria to punish those persons guilty of their abduction.

DISCLAIMS RESPONSIBILITY.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SOFIA, Nov. 29.—With reference to the reports of the death of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the government holds that if the brigands, exasperated by the delay, have murdered Miss Stone, Dickinson, the diplomatic agent of the United States, is responsible for the delay, and not the government of Bulgaria. The latter has not interfered with Dickinson's emissaries, nor did the government move troops after Dickinson opened communication with the brigands.

PURCHASE OF CLYDE YARDS.

American Syndicate Said to Be Planning Gigantic Scheme.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The shipping weekly, Fairplay, learns that a gigantic scheme is in contemplation by which an American syndicate would acquire the whole of the Clyde shipyards, either by purchasing them outright or effecting a combination on the lines of the United States Steel Corporation.

Fairplay doubts whether the Americans would care to run their business under British trade conditions, but knows that the matter is being seriously discussed.

CHLORIDE OF SODIUM FROM CALIFORNIA.

GROWTH OF SALT INDUSTRY IN THE GOLDEN STATE.

First Product Was Scraped from Tide Lands by Mexicans and Indians—Comb nation at San Francisco Fills the Market—Yearly Output.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Census Bureau has issued a special bulletin on the production of salt in the United States, the production of salt in California, etc.

The first salt made in California was produced by the Mexicans and Indians, who, in order to have their own private supply, made it by evaporating sea water. Along the coasts of San Francisco Bay are what were formerly the lands covered by June and July. Spaniards, Mexicans and Indians gathered this salt annually until about 1852, though the harvest amounted to only a few bushels. In that year the discovery was made that the land was public domain, and it was purchased from the State at a price said to have been $1.25 per acre. The first attempt to improve the quality appears to have been made in 1864, when the Crystal Works were built. These works consisted of ponds for receiving and settling the sea water, so as to precipitate the gypsum and other impurities which were less soluble than salt.

"Owing to ver-production, the industry for a number of years has not been in a prosperous condition. During 1899 the management of all large works along San Francisco Bay passed into the hands of the Federal Salt Company, and it is believed that, with restricted production and conservative management, it may be a profitable one. While the principal salt works in California are located on San Francisco Bay, small quantities of salt are produced at other places in the State. There are salt works at Salton, in Riverside county, in a portion of the Colorado desert, which is below sea level, where the water is pumped from wells and evaporated. At National City, in San Diego county, salt is made by evaporation of water from San Diego Bay. A small amount of rock salt, which is said to be very pure and transparent, has been mined in San Bernardino county, thirty miles south of Danby. As many as 3000 tons were mined there during one year, but only 250 tons were mined in 1900. The distance from railroads prevents larger production. A small amount was made from saline springs in Colusa county, and at Black Lake, San Luis Obispo county."

The report on manufacture for the eighth census contains the first official record of salt production in California, which was then reported as 4600 bushels, or 3000 barrels. The production reported at each subsequent census has been: In 1870, 24,971 barrels; 1880, 178,949 barrels; 1890, 253,326 barrels, and in 1900, 640,429 barrels.

NO LOG-ROLLING.

ROOT REASSURES THE CUBANS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Secretary Root today addressed a communication to Elijo Bonachea, president of the convention at Havana that nominated Bartolomeo Maso for President, relative to complaints that the United States was interfering in the elections. A press dispatch from Havana stated that Maso complained that the influence of the United States officers was being exerted in favor of Estrada Palma, and a dispatch from Bonachea to the Secretary implied the same thing. The Secretary, in his communication to Señor Bonachea, says:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your dispatch of November 26, saying: 'The national convention of Havana, which has proclaimed Gen. Maso candidate for the Presidency of the future republic of Cuba, respectfully asks you to recommend to the representatives of the intervening government the strictest impartiality in the electoral contest which is now taking place.'

"The representatives of the intervening government in Cuba are already aware that their duty requires them not to be merely impartial in the electoral contest in Cuba, but to refrain from interfering in any manner whatever with the free expression of the wishes of the Cuban people at the polls. They have not violated this rule in the past, and will not in the future. They will have nothing to do with the electoral contest, except to enforce the electoral law prescribed by the constitutional convention, and promulgated by the military Governor on the 14th of October last. This will be done impartially and effectively.

"It is quite unnecessary to assume that the officers of this government will be less faithful to their duty hereafter, than they have been in the past, or to recommend or direct that they shall perform a duty which they are already performing."

PRESIDENT AND CABINET.

APPOINTMENTS AND FOOTBALL.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The major portion of the last Cabinet meeting before the convening of Congress, was devoted to going over some recess appointments, which will be sent to Congress next week.

Considerable time was spent upon the question of reappointing Gov. Jenkins of Oklahoma. Charges were made against Gov. Jenkins regarding his connection with a cattle company organized in the Territory, and the President gave him a hearing last Monday. It was decided today not to reappoint him.

Practically all the members of the Cabinet will accompany the President to Philadelphia tomorrow to witness the Annapolis-West Point football game. They will go as guests of Secretary Root, to whose special train the President's car will be attached. It has been arranged that the President will occupy the sailor boys' box during the first half, and the soldiers' box during the last half. The arrangement was made on the theory that the West Pointers will win, and that the President will be in the winning box at the conclusion of the game.

Secretary Root, at the meeting today, presented the President and each of his associates with a cane made from the wood of an ancient Chinese gun carriage, captured at the siege of Peking. The carriage was said to be over 500 years old.

SAMPSON'S PRIZE MONEY.

APPEAL BY UNITED STATES.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The United States today appealed to the District Court of Appeals from the opinion of Judge Bradley, rendered last July in the case of Rear-Admiral Sampson, officers and men of the North Atlantic Squadron in the battle off Santiago against the Infanta Maria Teresa and other vessels for prize money.

Judge Bradley held that the Infanta Maria Teresa and her guns and ammunition should be condemned and forfeited to the United States as lawful prizes, and that Rear-Admiral Sampson and his officers and men should receive and share in the prize money.

MAILS FOR NOME.

BIG CUT IN TIME MADE.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The time of transit of winter mails between Seattle and Nome, Alaska, is cut from sixty to sixty-five days each way to twenty-four days with corresponding expedition for intermediate points by a contract which has just been made by Assistant Postmaster Shallenberger.

The new service is via Valdez, Alaska, Illamna Bay, on Cook's Inlet, St. Michael and Golovin, to Nome, 2567 miles in all, with two round trips a month during this winter.

The contractors' compensation is $3000 per round trip, they being the Northern Commercial Company for the ocean part, and the Trans-Alaska Company for the overland part of the route.

The weight of mail for the overland part of the route is limited to 270 pounds per single trip, and preference will be given first to letter mail and second to separately-addressed newspapers.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

Gould announced that the government would rest its case, after the introduction of one or two more witnesses, and that he expected to conclude at the morning session of the court tomorrow.

Deputy Coroner Glasebrook today concluded his testimony, and Detective Horn told of the confession which Mrs. Bonine first made to him of her part in the tragedy. Her confession to the Chief of Police was also read.

CUBA.

CUBANS NOT READY FOR ANNEXATION.

WANT TO TASTE INDEPENDENCE BEFORE THEY COME IN.

Gen. Wood Refuses to Express Any Opinion on the Subject—He is on His Way to Washington to Report to the President.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Among the passengers who arrived yesterday from Havana were Gen. Leonard Wood, Governor of Cuba; Mrs. Wood, M. J. Dady, the contractor; Sir William Horne, Lieut. W. B. Arden and Lieut. Frank McCoy.

Gen. Wood said that he would proceed directly to Washington to report to the President, and expected to return to Cuba on December 7. He said he had expressed no opinion on the question of the annexation of Cuba, and to do so would be impolitic. Matters were quiet in Cuba, and preparations were being made for the election in February.

"Of course," said Gen. Wood, "there are a number of people in Cuba who desire annexation, but I doubt the possibility of securing a canvass of the question. The people of Cuba wish to see their flag floating over Morro Castle, even if it were only for a week."

Dady says the City Council of Havana, by a unanimous vote, gave him the Havana contract for public improvements there, and that the plans and specificatious are in preparation for presentation to Gen. Wood, who will consider them on his return to Cuba.

Great Northern Yields to State.

Releases for Use Vast Tract of Land.

Great Railway of Future—New Mexican Lines—Auto on Rails.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.) Nov. 29.—By a fortunate stroke State Auditor R. C. Dunn today settled a land dispute of seven years' standing with the Great Northern Railway, and released 270,000 acres for settlement. This land was selected arbitrarily in 1894 by State Auditor Biermann for the Great Northern under a land-grant act. The road refused to accept it, and the matter has been in litigation ever since. Dunn succeeded in finding a purchaser, and the railroad company accepted the arrangement.

The land, which is in twenty-seven different counties of the State, goes to a syndicate headed by F. E. Kenaston of this city and O. A. Robertson of St. Paul. The price is not stated, but is known to be over half a million.

FROM PARIS TO NEW YORK.

GREAT RAILWAY OF FUTURE.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Harry De Windt, writing from the Royal Geographical Society, has addressed to the Globe a letter on the proposed railway from Paris to New York, says the Tribune's London representative. He points out that the project is not a new one. The Russian authorities have been considering it for more than a year past, and he himself is proceeding next month with the expedition from Paris to New York by land to ascertain whether the plan is a feasible one. He says the crossing of Bering Straits presents no greater difficulties than the tunnelling of the Straits of Dover.

HONESTY AN OBSTACLE.

RAILWAY EXPERT'S OPINION.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—An expert who has been studying the railway statistics of the United Kingdom has stated that honesty in the management, while the best policy in the long run, is an obstacle to greatly-needed schemes of reorganization, says the Tribune's London correspondent. The construction and equipment of the lines have always been conducted in the most substantial way, and the capital required for enlarged operations has been provided in hard cash. The railroads have not been bankrupted or reorganised or the valuation of property scaled down, while the managers have continued to pay dividends steadily on the increased capitalization.

The time is now approaching when a change of motive power from steam to electricity must be faced, and this will involve an enormous addition to the working capital, and the managers will be at their wit's end to find ways and means for maintaining dividends on the entire stock.

AUTO ON RAILS.

NOVEL RUSSIAN SCHEME.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Prince Khilkoff, Russian Minister of Ways of Communication, has devised an entirely novel way of utilising an automobile, says the St. Petersburg correspondent of the Herald. In his garden ordinary railway sleepers have been laid over a distance of a couple of hundred yards, and along these timbers boarding has been fixed on exactly the distance apart for the wheels of an automobile to run upon them, just as a train runs on rails. A lateral plank acts as a guard to prevent the automobile leaving the track.

An ordinary three-and-a-half horse-power De Dion-Boulon carriage easily pulled a cart laden with bricks, and a workman, the whole weighing 110 poods (nearly two tons) at a speed of twelve versts an hour.

The Minister proposes to apply the system throughout the empire as a supplementary means of transport between points not reached by railways.

NEW MEXICAN LINES.

CONTRACT BEFORE CONGRESS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 29.—The first reading has been given by Congress to a report regarding a contract made with the Mexican National Railroad Company for the construction of two new lines, one from San Miguel Camargo to Monterey, and another from the City of Mexico to a point on the present main line to Laredo, and also for changing the gauge of the main line.

The report of the committee, which is favorable, shows that the new lines, and the broadening of the guage will be for the benefit of the business of the country.

CONTRACT LABORERS.

Priest Believes That Immigrants Killed in Seneca Wreck Were Imported in Violation of Law.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DETROIT, Nov. 29.—Father Francis Beccherini, pastor of an Italian church in this city, went to the scene of the railroad wreck near Seneca today, in the hope of identifying some of his countrymen. From Giovanni Polonoro, the young Italian who is dying in the farmhouse nearest the wreck, and from papers in his pockets, Father Beccherini found that the party of emigrants came from the northern part of Italy.

The party came on the steamer Campania. Arriving in New York they were given tickets to San Francisco.

"How," asked the father, "did this boy get out of Italy? How into this country? He is under 18 years of age. He had no passport from Italy. I think I know. These men were brought over on a contract as laborers to be taken out to San Francisco. Polonoro could not even tell me how many came across with him, or were on the train. I asked him who got him to come. He looked suspicious at once, and I could see that he had been instructed to say nothing. He only answered that 'a man' had brought them across to work. He said he had been given the $25 which he had with him by an Italian banker in New York."

Proof Afforded That He Had No Thought of Keeping His Rival Down When He Made His Recent Prolonged Political Campaign.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's energy in making a prolonged political campaign is attributed by the Unionist press to a desire to keep Lord Rosebery down, and forestall a bid for leadership, says the Tribune's London correspondent. His engagements were made weeks before Lord Rosebery accepted an invitation to come out of the furrow, and jealousy is not a foible of the Scotch leader, according to the correspondent. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, having succeeded in disciplining Asquith at the Reform Club meeting, is clearly bent upon leading as long as he is in command.

ENGLISH WRITERS APPLAUD.

PRESIDENT'S IDEAL CITIZEN.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Reviewing President Roosevelt's article in the December number of the New Liberal Review on the virtues of citizenship, the correspondent of the Tribune says that surveying contemporary public life, President Roosevelt discovers three points in regard to which citizens require instruction. They must have honesty, courage and common sense. The citizen fails in his duty, according to the Presidential ideal, if, seeing the evil, he merely turns out of its path. By conquest of the evil the purpose of the evil is revealed.

INTERESTS THE POST.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The Morning Post devoted an editorial to President Roosevelt's article in the New Liberal Review on "The Citizen and the Public Man," and says that it is both significant and interesting that the President should have felt the need of and found the time to have put these thoughts on paper.

FALL IN SILVER.

Attributed in England to Heavy Sales by American, Smelters—Alarmists Gloomy About the Cotton Trade.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

LONDON, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The fall in silver threatens to cause a depression in the Manchester cotton trade by diminishing the exports to China and India. It is attributed to heavy sales by American smelters seeking to force a powerful combination, rather than to the premature rumors that the Chinese government will dump an enormous quantity of silver on the European market in meeting the first installment of the indemnity.

Indian trade is, however, favorable, and with the rupee nominally on a gold basis, Manchester alarmists are hardly justified in forecasting anything more than a temporary flurry.

CANNING COMBINE KILLED.

President Norton Says He Has No Connection With the Proposed Deal in California, Which is Now Off.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The organization of another California canning combine has been abandoned. The projectors of the deal will give out but scant information. President Edward Norton of the American Can Company, who was reported to be a leader of the movement, said today: "I have no connection with this matter whatever."

Two weeks ago, he refused to confirm or deny the report that he was at the head of the combine, or to discuss the affair in any way. All operations in the matter have been conducted with the utmost secrecy. One dealer in close touch with California canning interests, said: "We know the deal to be completely off, but it is impossible to learn what the impediment is. One thing is assured, there was an attempted consolidation."

PROBING THE TRAGEDY.

Inquest in the Wabash Wreck Begins.

Conductor Trowl Tells His Story.

Nearly Two Hundred on the Ill-fated Train—Injured Improving.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ADRIAN (Mich.) Nov. 29.—Just before the Coroner's inquest in the Wabash Railroad wreck adjourned late today, Conductor Trowl of the ill-fated No. 13 testified as to the number of persons who were on that train. According to his statement there were 190 passengers on board.

When he was ordered to meet No. 4 he was at Holloway, and received his order from Operator Martin Dale. He read the order in the presence of the operator, and took three copies, giving two to the two engineers of his train, and retaining one himself. The engineer of engine 151 read the order. In each instance when the order was delivered by him, the fireman was present.

He understood the train was to sidetrack at Seneca for No. 4. If the train had passed Seneca he would have set the automatic brakes. Had the brake been set it would have required one-eighth of a mile to stop the train. He had no warning that anything was wrong until he felt the shock. At that time he was seated in the rear coach. When he had gotten out, fire had started in the head coach, and others were busy getting the injured out of the wreck. He hurried down the track to Sand Creek to get the engine of No. 3 to pull away what cars could be saved, and three sleepers were hauled away. Conductor Trowl then came to his estimate of the number on the train.

"How many had you?" was asked.

"One hundred and ninety," was the reply. "I don't know how many immigrants. We had 181 passengers out of Detroit. I get my figures from the collector on the train. I made a list of as many as I could find who were saved. I got the names of eighty-six. My collector and I were together getting the list. A number of passengers got away whose names I did not get. Aside from this record, I have no means of knowing how many were killed."

"What is your judgment as to the number killed?" he was asked.

"I would not say. I could not make any estimate."

Train Dispatcher Harvey O. Mann of Montpelier testified as to the sending of the order to train No. 4 to pass No. 13 at Seneca. The operator at Montpelier, who copied the order and gave it to Conductor Martin, testified as follows:

"Conductor Martin read the order to me aloud distinctly, and then signed it, and after repeating his signature to the dispatcher I delivered him his two copies."

The inquest was adjourned until Tuesday next.

DETROIT, Nov. 30.—An interview this morning with Thomas F. Moran, deputy customs collector at this port, practically verifies the estimate that at least eighty lives were lost in Wednesday night's wreck on the Wabash near Seneca.

The two immigrant cars, in which the greatest loss of life occurred and in which so many of the wreck victims were roasted to death, were part of train No. 13, which crossed the Detroit River from Canada on the ferryboat Great Western Wednesday afternoon, and Deputy Moran inspected the baggage of its passengers. He says there were at the very least calculations 100 Italians in the two cars. In addition to this there were ten more in the smoking car, which was ahead of the two immigrant cars.

CABLE BROKE AND CAGE DROPPED TO BOTTOM OF SHAFT.

Eight Men in it and All of Them Were Brought to the Surface Alive, but They Will Probably Die of Their Injuries.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CONNELLSVILLE (Pa.) Nov. 29.—At the Lambert mines, near Masontown, eight men, after dropping 700 feet down a mine shaft, were all brought to the surface living, but with three dying, and the others probably fatally hurt. Just as they got aboard the cage the cable parted and the cage dropped. The cage on the opposite side was immediately loaded with a rescue party, who found the men lying unconscious on the floor of the cage with crushed chests, broken arms and legs, and in some cases the bones protruding out through the flesh. One man's skull was fractured. Two of the injured miners were Americans and the other six Hungarians.

POPE DID NOT SAY IT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The report was widely circulated, just before President McKinley was assassinated, that Leo XIII, in an address to the bishops of South Italy, counseled a propoganda against Jews and anarchists. The International Catholic Truth Society's office in this city has just received a letter from the Secretary of State in the Vatictn, denying the report.

CROKER'S PLANS IN A LONDON FOG.

FRIENDS OF THE BOSS VENTURE TO PREDICT FOR HIM.

Say He Intends to Sell Out His Holdings in England and Brave an Investigation into the Peculiar Sources of His Wealth.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The friends of Richard Croker seemed today to be very much at sea in regard to his plans for the future. It was announced by one contingent of his admirers that Croker had made up his mind that the political situation in New York City was such it would be necessary for him to sell his English home, Moat house, in Wantage, Berkshire, and spend all his time in this country.

These friends of Croker said that he was going to stay in this country any way until April or May of next year, and that when he went abroad he would go to one of the European watering places, and after staying there about a month would return to this country. They said that Croker in the mean time would dispose of Moat house through a broker, sell some of his horses, bring the rest to this country, and become again a constant resident of New York.

SCHIFF RESIGNS.

First of the Expected Resignations of Directors Holding Seats in the Northern Railway Directorates.

"It was reported in Wall street today that Mr. Schiff had resigned as director of the Northern Pacific Company, but this is not true. The report probably arose from his resignation from the Great Northern board, which was not generally known in Wall street today."

The Evening Post also says that it was believed to be only a matter of time and of conveniences when the resignations of either Mr. Morgan or Hill from the board would be announced.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The remains of George M. Pullman, who died in Chicago Thursday morning, will be placed in the vault at Cypress Lawn Cemetery tomorrow, and some time next week they will be sent to Chicago for interment. Sanger Pullman, brother of the deceased, went to San Mateo today to make arrangements for the funeral.

The family discords and heart-burnings which were so frequently aroused during George Pullman's lifetime threatened to break out afresh at his death, and it is said that a bitter quarrel over funeral arrangements was narrowly averted. Mrs. Pullman, mother, has felt deep resentment because of his marriage to his present wife, who was Mrs. James Brazier, and has refused to be reconciled to her new daughter-in-law.

For some time prior to George Pullman's death, the elder Mrs. Pullman realized that his illness must result fatally, but the state of her own health made it impossible for her to come to San Francisco.

To relatives and friends in this city she wrote instructions regarding the disposition of the remains in the event of her son's demise, and her letters plainly showed that, though readily forgive her wayward son, she was still unreconciled to his wife. To Mrs. Hunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Sanger, and her friend, Daniel Earl, she wrote directing that the body should be shipped to Chicago, but that the wife and her relatives should not be allowed to accompany it. She declared that whatever George had been to her in life, and whoever had claimed him, including her from his affections, he should be hers in death.

The will of the deceased, which was made when he was informed by the physicians that there was but little hope of recovery, will be filed early next week. By this will he bequeathed his estate to his wife, and it is said that there will be no contest over the disposition of the property which he possessed. His estate is of small value, as he had little besides the monthly allowance given to him by his father.

ALTURAS, Nov. 29.—The entire morning session of the Superior Court in the case of the alleged Lookout lynchers was occupied by the fruitless examination of one talesman, Henry [illegible]rens. After stating that he did not consider with favor the indictment of those accused by the grand jury, he was excused. He charged by the prosecution. The challenge was denied by the court when Lorens added that he would not consider the indictment at all. In response to questions from the prosecution Lorens said that some time ago one of his daughters married Calvin [illegible], one of the men lynched at Lookout, and since that time he had not entertained friendly feelings toward the [illegible]. He added that he had been a personal friend of all the defendants for about eight years, but this fact would not influence his verdict. After further stating that he would not convict on circumstantial evidence, he was excused.

The next talesman called was Scott Claspill, who was passed.

L. L. Page of Cedarville, who was examined next, was asked by the prosecution if he would be influenced in any way by the fact that attachés of the Attorney-General's office are assisting the District Attorney in prosecuting the case. He believed that he could, he replied, and after further questioning stated that he was opposed to the prosecution of the case.

Court, for the prosecution, then asked if he did not think the mob did a good job when it lynched the men at Lookout. Page replied that he thought it did do a bad job. He was excused.

The examination of H. G. Holm was begun, but was not completed at the hour of adjournment.

Four talesmen have now been passed.

ALTURAS, Nov. 29.—The entire morning session of the Superior Court in the case of the alleged Lookout lynchers was occupied by the fruitless examination of one talesman, Henry Lorenz. After stating that he did not consider with favor the indictment of the men accused by the grand jury, he was discharged by the prosecution. The challenge was denied by the court after Lorenz added that he would not consider the indictment at all. In response to questions from the prosecution Lorenz said that some time ago one of his daughters married Calvin Page, one of the men lynched at Lookout, and since that time he had not entertained friendly feelings toward the family. He added that he had been a personal friend of all the defendants for about eight years, but this fact would not influence his verdict. DRILL AND THE "MYSTERY."

TWENTY-ROUND DRAW.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Nov. 29.—Al Neill of San Francisco and "Mysterious" Billy Smith of Portland fought twenty rounds to a draw at the Exposition Building tonight. Neill proved himself to be a clever boxer, but his blows lacked force. He fought a defensive fight all the way through, and jabbed Smith with his left continually. Smith was very wild, but Neill cleverly blocked his rushes.

Both men were very cautious up to the twelfth round, when they started in to mix it up. In that round Smith landed on Neill's jaw, but Neill came back with his left light on the jaw. In the fourteenth, Smith knocked Neill against the ropes with a heavy right over the heart, but Neill came up with a smile, and led for Smith's jaw, but missed. In the eighteenth round, Neill landed a terrific left-hander on Smith's jaw, which staggered him, but the gong allowed him to come up for the nineteenth round.

Neill appeared the stronger, but his blows lacked the force for a knockout. He punched Smith repeatedly on the jaw with his left, while the latter was trying to reach Neill's body, but the latter either blocked his blows or got away. When they came up for the twentieth round, it was evident that neither could be put to knockout, nay, less a chance blow was delivered, but both men appeared strong.

There was fast work in the twentieth round, but both men left the ring without a scratch.

CANNERIES TO SUSPEND.

MARKET FULL OF SALMON.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VANCOUVER, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] From a general decision reached at a meeting of the executives of the Fraser River Canners' Association, this afternoon, it is probable that half, at least, of the canneries on the river will not be operated during the next season. This is done to give a better chance for the disposal of the large pack of fish now on hand in the old country, and prevent the market in Europe from becoming hopelessly glutted with fish.

The action of the Canadian canners will not particularly affect the business of American concerns, for the latter have different markets for disposal of their product than the Canadian packers. Firms having only one cannery will probably operate to the fullest extent, but companies having two, three or four canneries will close all but one or two, as the case may be, so that not more than 50 per cent. of the canneries will be in operation, in all.

IMMENSE LANDSLIDE.

SIERRA RAILWAY BLOCKED.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ANGELS, Nov. 29.—The heavy rainfall of the past few days caused an immense landslide on the new extension of the Sierra Railway, near Robinson Ferry, Wednesday night. There is a big cut at that point, and a wall of earth eighty feet high and 100 feet in length was loosened by the moisture and slipped over the track. The wagon road was also covered to a great depth.

The construction gang had a narrow escape from being killed or injured, as the camp was moved just the evening previous to the accident. It would have been completely covered with earth, as the slide occurred at that point. A large force of men are engaged in clearing the track and wagon road, but it will take some time to move all the loose dirt.

WATER FOR THE MINES.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ANGELS, Nov. 29.—The rainfall at this place for the storm was 1.61 inches, making a total of 8.88 inches for the season, against 11.60 inches a year ago. Many mines will now be started up, as there is sufficient water to keep them working till another rain.

He then threw the body into the river, where it was found by the mounted police. As O'Brien was convicted of killing Olsen, Reife and Clayson, the charge of murdering Habnemann was never pressed against him.

Report of Governor of the Territory.

Surplus Acdumulated in Treasury Funds.

Advantages of Statehood not Overlooked—Population Last Year.

BY GEORGE H. CROSS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SANTA FE (N. M.) Nov. 26.—The annual report of Gov. M. A. Otero to the Secretary of the Interior shows that New Mexico has continued to enjoy prosperity in all branches of material development during the past year, and has "made marked advance in all things which contribute to the greatness of an American commonwealth."

AREA AND POPULATION.

New Mexico covers an area of nearly 79,000,000 acres, of which about 24,000,000 acres have been appropriated under the various land laws, leaving an available unappropriated area of some 55,000,000 acres capable of supporting a population of many millions; the estimated total population is 300,000, exclusive of Indians, which number 12,206. The Governor takes strong grounds against the injustice, as he declares, which the recent census does in accrediting to the Territory a population of but 195,310 in 1900, and sets forth at length many reasons for his belief. He asserts that the registration in October, 1900, which showed 59,297 voters in the Territory, should serve as a fair basis for arriving at a just estimate of the population; but few of the large number of voters are without families, and even among the 6000 or 8000 miners in the Territory, more than half have families; reckoning, therefore, five persons to the family of each voter, would make a total estimated population of 296,485.

STATEHOOD.

The Governor states that the actual taxable value of property in New Mexico is $150,000,000, and states his opinion to be that this vast sum would be more than trebled within five years after admission of the Territory as a State. So long as the question arising out of the acquisition of Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines were burning issues, says the Governor, there was not much prospect that New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma would be admitted, but those matters being now out of the way there seems to be no reason why the door should not be opened for all the continental Territory sent more volunteer soldiers to the defense of the country per capita in the Civil and Spanish-American wars than any other State or Territory.

FISCAL INTERESTS.

Under wise and beneficent laws, enacted by recent Legislative assemblies, it has been possible for the first time in the history of the Territory to accumulate a surplus in almost every fund in the Treasury Department, which can be turned toward reducing the interest-bearing debt, instead of a deficit to be met by another issue of bonds or an increased rate of taxation, and this, notwithstanding the fact that the Treasurer has been enabled to call in and cancel $48,900 of certificates of indebtedness, and also $20,000 of 6 per cent. and $20,637 of floating indebtedness, making a total reduction in the indebtedness of the Territory of $89,427, being a reduction of more than 7 per cent. of the total indebtedness, and in addition to which there are now on hand trust funds for the redemption of outstanding bonded indebtedness to the amount of $71,658.97. The bonded debt of the Territory at this time is $1,180,976; besides paying ni cash all current expenses, providing for all appropriations, and from all present indications leaving surplus balances in all funds at the end of the current fiscal year ending December 31, 1901. The Territory's standing in the financial centers of the world is staetd to be first class. During the present administration all interest payments have been promptly met, the 4-per-cent. bonds have been sold at a premium, and from the revenue derived from the leasing and sale of lands for the benefit of the various public institutions there have during the past year been expended large sums in betterments on the public property.

EDUCATIONAL STRUGGLES.

Before 1850 New Mexico had been an outlying province of the kingdom of Spain and the republic of Mexico, neglected and uncared for by either government, compelled to depend upon herself and her own resources, to contend against an arid climate, while at the same time carrying on war continuously for more than a quarter of a century with savage Indians within her borders. Naturally the cause of popular education suffered much, being at times entirely suspended in all save a few of the more populous communities. But after repeated appeals, covering a period of more than forty years, Congress, in 1836, passed an act donating to the Territory lands for the various public institutions, and sections 16 and 36 for the benefit of the public schools. Long prior to that, however, the people of the Territory had taken the subject in hand and by legislative enactment provided an excellent system of public-school laws, supported by a heavier direct tax than was ever laid in any State or Territory for the purpose, viz., 3 mills on the dollar. These laws have been materially improved from time to time, until now New Mexico has an educational system that appeals to the pride of every citizen.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The number of children of school age within the Territory is 53,008, of whom 47,700 are enrolled as pupils, with an average daily attendance of 31,005, 59 per cent. of the children being enrolled on school rosters and 60 per cent. in actual daily attendance. These children are educated in 800 schools, by 1000 teachers, and the school property is valued at over $1,000,000. Illiteracy has decreased. The census of 1870 (twenty-four years after the "peaceful annexation" of New Mexico by the United States, when Gen. Kearny had proclaimed to this people the "bill of rights," which is still retained on the statute books nearly unchanged) showed that 85 per cent. of the populace were illiterate. The census of 1880 reduced this to 65 per cent., and the census of 1890 brought it down to 44.49, and while the census figure for 1900 on this subject have not yet been completed it is believed that it will show this percentage has been reduced to 30 per cent.

LAND DONATIONS.

Under the operations of the law donating the public lands above referred to there have been received from rentals of leased school sections the sum of $14,135.34, and from the 5 per cent. of the money received from sales of public lands the further sum of $3185.50, all of which has gone into the public school fund of the Territory and has been distributed among the various school districts. Besides accruing from this same source are the following amounts to the credit of the institutions named: Normal University, $10,330.62; Normal Training School, $10,330.60; School of Mines, $13,383.48; Penitentiary, $14,519.45; Military Institute, $6512.14; Blind Asylum, $32.14; Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb, $12,696.71.

The Governor, in view of the present urgent needs for utilizing every possible available resource for advancing the Territory's educational development, urges that an additional grant of not less than 5,000,000 acres be given the Territory to be apportioned among the institutions named and for the objects specified in the Congressional act of June 21, 1898, and also in addition to sections 16 and 36, now available for public-school purposes, that there be granted sections 13 and 33 in each township, to be devoted to the public-school interests.

LAND GRANT TITLES.

The work of the United States Court of Private Land Claims in quieting titles to the Spanish and Mexican land grants, which until recent years have retarded the development of New Mexico, is highly commended. During the past year this court has judicially considered claims covering an area of 3,669,716 acres claimed as land grants, of which 25,667 acres were confirmed as being valid grants and 3,644,049 acres rejected as grant lands and restored to the public domain.

In view of the large area reverting to the public domain by reason of the adjustment of titles by the land court, he also recommends that the government provide some means of having this class of public lands immediately surveyed and subdivided, to the end that the school sections therein be available at once for leasing purposes under the law aboye referred to, thereby enhancing the benefits derived by the public schools of New Mexico through this Congressional donation. At the present time a great many applications for the lease of such school sections cannot be taken up by the Territorial Land Commissioner because these former grants have not been surveyed and subdivided.

LAND ENTRIES.

The increase in the number and extent of land entries during the fiscal year is an indication that New Mexico is rapidly settling up. The entries in the Santa Fé land district amounted to 349,189.54 acres. There are three other districts, and the total area of land entered was 672,161.54 acres, an increase of 151,516.54 acres over the previous fiscal year. Nearly 1300 persons located new homesteads in the Territory during the year, filing upon 274,586 acres, indicating the healthy growth and development of the Territory, and its capacity to provide new homes for the western immigrant.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

New Mexico Territorial buildings and their value are given, as follows: A new Capitol, $400,000; penitentiary, $500,000; College of Agricultural and Mechanic Arts and Agricultural Experimental Station, $90,000; Asylum for the Insane, $79,731; School of Mines, $65,000; University, $60,500; Normal University, $58,570; Military Institute, $53,400; Historic Official Palace, $30,000; Normal Training School, $32,000; Asylum for Deaf and Dumb, $6000; total, $1,378,261.

VACILLATING COURT.

Postponement of the Date of Arrival for Three Weeks After Date Was Unofficially Announced.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PEKING, Nov. 26.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The embarrassment of the Chinese, caused by the vacillation of the court regarding its return to Peking, has not been lessened by the postponement of the date of arrival for three weeks after date that was unofficially announced. Although the delay is apparently explained by the illness of the Dowager Empress, this is believed to be only an official excuse by Prince Ching. He expects tomorrow, it is said, to receive an additional margin of time in which to close Manchurian negotiations, which it is understood are the real cause of the court's uncertainty. Russia, despite her professions, is thus embarrassing the position and hindering restoration of the Emperor.

MORE MEN NEEDED.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The correspondent of the Times in Pretoria, where recent dispatches giving the number of Boer commandoes are supposed to have been allowed to pass through the censorship as a warning that more troops were needed in South Africa, today sends a sketch of the position of the British columns, and states explicitly that men are needed to expedite the attrition of the Boers, and that a further partitioning of the country by lines of blockhouses is necessary to enable the British columns to achieve greater results.

Seemingly fearing that an alliance between the pro-Bullerites and the pro-Boers, during the demonstration to be held tomorrow in Hyde Park in sympathy with Gen. Buller, may be the beginning of a serious anti-government agitation, the Standard this morning semi-officially warns Gen. Buller that unless he checks the extravagance of his partisans, the government may be compelled to make further disclosures which will cause a revulsion of feeling against him.

The Standard hints that Gen. White at first refused to regard Gen. Buller's heliogram as authentic, and when it was deliberately repeated Gen. White decided to disobey it.

SEAMEN'S RESOLUTIONS.

Attention Called to Behavior of the Chinese Crew When the Rio de Janeiro Was Wrecked.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BUFFALO (N. Y.) Nov. 29.—The Committee on Resolutions of the International Seamen's Union of America reported today. The report was adopted.

The bill introduced in the last Congress to amend the laws relating to American seamen, and to improve the personnel of the merchant marine was indorsed, and its reintroduction urged. The report of the committee calls attention to the under-manning of all classes of vessels.

The employment of Asiatics as sailors is condemned. Attention is called to the loss of the Rio Janeiro, and the conduct of the Chinese crew on that vessel when she was wrecked near San Francisco.

Congress is petitioned for an increased appropriation for the Marine Hospital Service.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

We have thousands of testimonials from grateful patients who have been cured of CONSUMPTION by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Gentlemen—I had a cough for three years, effects of grip and not taking proper care of myself. In April, 1898, I became so weak I was unable to work. I was examined by two physicians who told me I had bronchitis very bad. They advised me to use Duffy's Malt Whiskey, but I was so bitter against whiskey I would not consent.

By August 20th last I had gone so far as to be unable to get my breath, except with difficulty—was very low. I thought I could not live much longer. Our old physician, Dr. T. W. Campbell, of Emery, S. C., examined my lungs and told me the right one was very bad, and the left one but a trifle better, but that I had enough lungs left to live a good while yet if I would take plenty of Duffy's Malt Whisky, and take it regularly. By this time I was willing to do anything for relief. So the dear old man, though he is not a whisky doctor, ordered me to begin at once with two tablespoonfuls as a dose every two hours day and night. I did so, and immediately began to improve, and now, six weeks from that time, I can breathe almost as well as I ever could, and Dr. C. says my lungs are healed, except one dull place in the right lung, and that the cavities are contracting. I do not know whether God is going to let me get well or not, but I humbly trust He will, and I believe that, under God, your Whiskey has saved my life thus far, and if I had begun a year ago I would have been cured by this time.

Respectfully,

MRS. H. E. RIDDLE, Zena, S. C.

SLEUTHS ON WRONG SCENT.

Comedy of Errors in City of Grief.

Los Angeles Detectives Track Each Other.

Two Prominent Ladies from This City Mistaken for Kidnapers.

According to correspondence of The Times from San Diego, some private detectives from Los Angeles have created a first-class sensation in the City of Grief, by tracking each other through the wilds of the "Sandyago" Bay region, and throwing out mysterious hints about kidnaped infants, large inheritances and designing women.

The sleuths of the press of the lower harbor town have kept their eagle eyes upon the aforesaid Los Angeles Vidocq, and this is the story they have unraveled:

KIDNAPED BOY.

"Recently," says the San Diego advices, "a nine-year-old Los Angeles boy inherited an English estate valued at some $3,000,000. His mother is dead, and his father, being an Arizona mining man, is away from home a good share of the time. He was left in charge of two ladies, who were the friends of his mother.

"These ladies attempted to take out guardian papers, presumably to get their fingers on the estate. In the mean time the father returned, and they skipped out to San Diego to prevent his getting possession of the boy. Detective H. E. Saphir followed them in the interests of the father, and the authorities in Los Angeles. Private Detectives Appel and Farrar followed him in the interest of the scheming ladies.

"The women have thus far succeeded in baffling the other side, and have spirited the boy away somewhere across the Mexican line, or in that vicinity on this side.

SAPHIR'S SLY WORK.

"It is known that Saphir is working on some case here with Constable Herman Marks. They have been hobnobbing here together about the town. It is known from good authority that Saphir has been to at least two hotels, the Brewster and the Florence, with a photograph of the kidnaped boy, asking them if they had ever had such a guest. He got no satisfaction at the Brewster, but at the Florence he found that there had been such a boy who, according to the night clerk, exactly fitted the description and photograph. According to the clerk he was brought to the hotel last Monday by two ladies who registered as Mrs. G. D. Cadwalader and Mrs. C. R. Craig. They remained until Tuesday forenoon, in the dining-room they betrayed to the waiters that they were unfamiliar with the boy's tastes.

"They ordered their baggage sent to the depot in time to catch the northbound 1:45 train. They left the hotel during the morning and have not been seen since.

"The clerk says that a detective answering the description of Saphir called there Wednesday night. He displayed the photograph of the boy who had been a guest at the hotel, and asked for the particulars, which were given to him. He stated that he was representing the Sheriff of Los Angeles county. He said that he had been shadowing the depot and that no women or boy answering the description had been seen; that it was impossible for them to have gone without his knowledge.

THE PLOT THICKENS.

"In the mean time all three of the above-mentioned detectives registered at the Brewster for Wednesday night. It is learned from good authority that Appel ordered a carriage from Levy's stables for the next morning. He said that he was going to Otay. At noon yesterday he was seen in the hotel lobby by a reporter and asked the purport of his business. He replied that he was down working out a detail of the Downey murder, and that he had obtained some very valuable evidence from Otay; he would return later and take a deposition.

"Saphir and Marks were seen together this (Friday) afternoon in Constable Harry Place's office. Mr. Place was also present. When asked concerning the details of the case he was working on, Mr. Marks first tried to turn the matter off as a joke. He afterward became very angry and remarked that it was no d—— newspaper's business what case he was working on. Later he admitted that he was working on some important case, but denied that it was the one referred to by the reporter. He tried to wheedle the newspaper man by promising him that he should have all the details of the case when he had worked it out. Saphir insisted that he was down here for his health.

"Saphir insisted that he was personally acquainted with the two ladies above mentioned and that they had nothing whatever to do with any case that he knew anything about.

PAID THEIR BILL.

"Appel and Farrar paid their bill at the Brewster this morning and gave out that they were going to Los Angeles this afternoon.

"The last seen of the boy he was with the two women about twenty miles south of Tia Juana, driving toward Ensenada."

DETECTIVE'S STORY.

Detective "Billy" Appel returned from San Diego yesterday evening, and, when questioned about the kidnaping story, denied all knowledge of the case. He admitted having hired a team to drive out to Otay, but said that was on business of a private nature, not connected with any kidnaping or Downey murder case. He was merely jollying the San Diego reporter when he told him that he had unearthed evidence in the Wilcox case. The man Farrar who accompanied him was merely a San Francisco drummer, whom he had met at Oceanside, and who merely went around with him at San Diego for company.

"Saphir, of the Elms Detective Agency," said Appel," spotted me and Farrar at Oceanside, and trailed us all the while we were at San Diego. He evidently was sent down there on some mission, and when he saw me, I guess he thought I was representing an interest opposed to his, so he just followed me and my friend around. We were on to him, and acted suspicious and mysterious just to keep him interested.

"No, sir; I know absolutely nothing about this kidnaping story, but I do know that Saphir followed us back to this city," said Appel.

Saphir and his employer, John P. Elms, would not discuss the matter last night, further than to intimate that Appel had mixed himself up in a case in which they were doing some detective work.

LADIES IN THE CASE.

The ladies whom the San Diego reporters have settled upon as the alleged kidnapers will be surprised when they learn of the sensation they created by their quiet little excursion to San Diego.

Mrs. G. D. Cadwalader is the wife of George D. Cadwalader, secretary and general manager of the Los Angeles Brick Company. Mrs. C. R. Craig is her sister, and the little boy they had with them is Mrs. Craig's little grandson, Emory Lovett. The two ladies and the infant took a run down to San Diego last Monday, for pleasure, spent the night at Hotel Florence, and returned to this city on the following evening.

Mrs. Cadwalader is now at her home, No. 923 South Hope street; Mrs. Craig is at the Van Nuys Broadway Hotel, where she resides, and the little boy, who was not kidnaped, is at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Lovett, No. 2809 Orchard avenue.

THE MISSING BOY.

The only boy who is missing from Los Angeles at the present time, for whom detectives are known to be searching, is little Adolph Hinton, son of A. D. Hinton of Arizona. That he is heir to a $3,000,000 estate in England seems to be the only new feature of the case that has not heretofore been published, and this part of the story has not been verified.

The Hinton child has been the subject of habeas corpus proceedings in the Superior Court of this county within the last ten days. The writ was directed against his grandmother, F. H. Randall, but the latter was unable to produce the child in court, the infant having been spirited away, as was the supposition, by friends of his deceased mother.

Mrs. Randall's version of the affair is pathetic. Several years ago she and her family were living near Phoenix, Ariz., and Hinton, a groceryman, courted her eldest daughter. The match, it is said, was never fully approved by the family, but this did not hinder the marriage. Soon afterward Hinton failed in the grocery business and Mrs. Hinton had to teach school in order to keep their expenses up, which she did for two or three years, and finally came to Los Angeles, whither her mother had moved in the meantime, to give birth to a child, little Adolph. That was in 1897. Two days after Adolph was born Mrs. Hinton died. Since that time the grandmother has cared for the little one. She maintains that the father has not contributed even one cent to the support of his boy, nor even visited him once since his birth.

About two weeks ago Hinton arrived from Arizona and wanted to take the boy away with him. He has married again, it is reported, and is ready to give him a home. A day or two was allowed for negotiation in the premises, but in the meantime friends had heard that Hinton was in the city and they quietly took the child away and nobody knows where he is.

It is undoubtedly the Hinton boy that Detective Saphir was trying to trace up at San Diego, and the presence of two Los Angeles ladies in that city at the same time with a child of about or nearly the same age caused the detective and the sleuths of the press to get off on the wrong tack.

Mrs. Cadwalader and Mrs. Craig are too well known in this city to be open to suspicion of being connected with any kidnaping conspiracy.

GERMANY.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S EFFORTS FOR PEACE.

BISMARCK LETTERS THROW MORE LIGHT ON THEM.

She Wrote to Emperor William the First in Remonstrance Against the Alleged Purpose of Germany to Again War With France.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Concerning the letters in the two new volumes of the correspondence of Prince Bismarck, just published, the Berlin correspondent of the London Times and New York Times cables that one is from Emperor William I to Bismarck, written in August, 1885. It acquaints the Chancellor with representations made by Queen Victoria on the assumption that Germany meditated a preventive war against France.

The Emperor wrote to the Queen in reply, to the effect that he was grateful for her kindness in offering her good offices in the way of mediation, but he was pained to see that she regarded him as a disturber of European peace. The Queen's knowledge of his character, said the Emperor, ought to make such an assumption impossible.

No one was more convinced than he that public opinion would be against any one provoking war.

Queen Victoria replied that persons in Emperor William's entourage were proclaiming such views, unknown to him, but as the whole affair was now consigned to oblivion, she would say no more about it.

In another letter, written by Prince Bismarck to Gen. Von Albedyll in July, 1885, when the health of Emperor William was weak, the Chancellor related an interview with Crown Prince Frederick, in which the latter said that an understanding with Prince Bismarck was an indispensable condition of his future reign, and that the existing policy of the government must continue to be pursued.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Russell Sage is a football enthusiast. She was not well known until today, when the wife of the aged financier invited the entire Carlisle Indian football team to her home and talked so fluently about "runs around the end" and "mass plays through the center," that the veteran Wheelock was embarrassed for the lack of something to say, and Decara whispered to Chesaw: "We don't know a little bit about the game."

Sage was there, too, but as one of the braves said later, "He wasn't one, two, three with Mrs. Sage in the brief interview," and evidently marveled at the command Mrs. Sage had of football lore.

The Indian boys went up in a body from Fifth-avenue Hotel. The arrival of the "tribe," many of whom bore traces of yesterday's struggle with Columbia, was a complete surprise to Sage. Mrs. Sage had meant it to be, and the head of the household received them with good grace, for he knew his wife was greatly interested in Indian education, and especially in the progress made by those who attend the Carlisle School.

Mrs. Sage saw the first game the Indians played with Brown University, back in the nineties. Before the team left Sage gave each member $1 for a necktie.

LORD DERBY DISPOSED OF.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—A number of fast trotters and pacers were in the programme for sale at the Pasig-Tipton auction today.

Lord Derby, 2:06½, and Shadow Chimes, 2:06¾, the two stars of the Hamlin stables, were reserved for sale until 3 o'clock this afternoon, at which time the horses named entered the ring. Lord Derby was driven by Ed Geers, M. Lamar and E. E. Smithers, both of this city, made the bidding lively until $10,000 was reached. This was Lamar's last bid, and Smithers got the horse for $500 more.

Other bidders for Lord Derby in addition to Messrs. Lamar and Smithers were Wallace Pears of Sharpsburg, Pa., who bid to $9500 and Nathan Strauss, who bid to $9000.

At the Hartford meeting, this summer, Smithers offered $20,000 for Lord Derby. His offer was refused. Shadow Chimes went to William West of Edinburgh, Scotland, for $5100. The day's sales amounted to $83,710 for ninety-five head, an average of $555 per horse. The total amount for the five days' sale was $347,800, a grand average of about $669 per head.

NEW BASEBALL LEAGUE

HICKEY IS THE PRESIDENT.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—The American Association of Professional Baseball Clubs, with T. J. Hickey as president, was launched today. The new magnates finished their preliminary business, and adjourned subject to the call of the president. Chicago will be President Hickey's headquarters. The circuit and owners of the franchises were announced as follows:

Indianapolis, W. H. Watkins and J. Bauschkaup; Milwaukee, H. D. Quinn and C. S. Havenor; St. Paul, George Lennon; Columbus, T. J. Brice; Toledo, Charles Strobel; Minneapolis, A. B. Beals, Omaha, W. A. Rourke; Kansas City, George Tebeau.

The new league announced that it would not affiliate with the national body or with any of the minor leagues. It was announced that this decision was not taken in any spirit of defiance, but because the new organization considers itself out of the class of the minor leagues, although not ranking with the national organization. Contracts will be respected, but not reservations.

The Western League, of which Hickey was formerly president, will be reorganized with a six-club circuit, made up of Denver, Colorado Springs, St. Joseph, Des Moines, Sioux City and Lincoln.

Applications in the American Association were refused to Grand Rapids, Cincinnati and Chicago.

ARMY AGAINST NAVY.

PRESIDENT WILL BE THERE.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—The football warriors of the West Point and Annapolis schools are arriving here today for their annual contest on the University of Pennsylvania's athletic field tomorrow. Nearly every train from the north, south and west that came in during the afternoon and evening brought scores of persons who with the President of the United States, will watch the cadets do battle on the gridiron. All the prominent hotels of the city are crowded with officers and other officials of the army and navy.

The announcement that the President would be on hand had the effect of making the demand for tickets an enormous one. The 24,000 cards of admission were divided between the two academies and the university, and distributed gratis by them. Fifteen thousand applicants have been refused, so great has been the demand. Notwithstanding the precautions taken, hundreds of tickets found their way into the hands of scalpers, who are selling them tonight at fancy prices.

Ailing Men

Who have sought relief in vain can come to me with complete assurance that my methods of treatment are entirely unlike those employed by other specialists and they will be

Cured to Stay Cured

I have been established fifteen years as a specialist, and my practice has grown to be the largest in the West. I treat and permanently cure all diseases peculiar to men.

"WEAKNESS."

If other physicians have treated you for so-called "weakness," you were helped only temporarily, if at all, and the reason is very apparent when the cause of loss of sexual power in man is understood. "Weakness" isn't a weakness at all, but merely a symptom of chronic inflammation in the prostate gland, brought on by early dissipation or some contracted disorder. My system of local treatment removes this inflammation, and is the only treatment that has ever or ever can permanently restore strength and vigor.

VARICOCELE.

Most doctors and specialists will tell you that an operation is necessary to the cure of varicocele, and thousands of men who dread the knife are sacrificing health, and possibly life itself, to this delusion. I guarantee to cure varicocele in one week, and without cutting, caustic, ligature or pain. The treatment I employ is an original one, and no other doctor attempts to cure varicocele by a process at all similar. I invite all men suffering from varicocele to call and investigate the claim I make.

My Colored Chart will be sent upon application and will aid you in understanding men's diseases.

My office and hospital occupy the entire building over Wells-Fargo Express office. Consultation free.

SECRETARY OF WAR'S REPORT.

The annual report of the Secretary of War, Elihu Root, is an interesting and comprehensive document, as was fully indicated by the extended extracts from it published in The Times of yesterday morning. This report, in its careful, systematic arrangement, its thorough treatment of the subjects covered in its several divisions, and its eminently wise and practical suggestions, reveals Secretary Root in his true and proper light as one of the most capable of the many capable men who have occupied the position of Secretary of War.

One of the elements of the great success of President McKinley's administration was in the fact that he had the tact and rare good judgment to choose as his executive subordinates and official advisers in most cases, men of ripe judgment, of experience, of discretion, of executive ability—men who had a thorough grasp of public affairs, and who were in complete harmony with the method and policies of the Chief Executive. Such a man, in an eminent degree, is the Secretary of War. His annual report is a demonstration of his fitness for that important office.

An interesting part of Secretary Root's report is that relative to the operations of the Signal Corps, especially in Cuba and the Philippines. The telegraph system of Porto Rico was transferred to the civil authorities on the 1st of February, 1901.

"The corps has operated during the year a telegraph system in Cuba of 3418 miles," says the report, "most of which it had built or rebuilt. It has been busily engaged in training Cubans in the telegraph offices, so that they may be prepared to operate the system upon our retirement." In the Philippines, a great advance has been made toward perfecting the system of communication, "extending through more than a thousand miles from north to south, the lines amounting on the 1st of July, 1901, to 4851 miles, an increase during the fiscal year of 2054 miles. The military cable system of the Philippines now covers 749 miles, connecting Manila over our own lines with the islands of Mindoro, Marinduque, Masbate, Samar, Leyte, Cebu, Negros, Mindanao, Jolo, Siasi and Panay." That part of Secretary Root's report covering the operations of the army in the Philippines, the conduct of the military government, and its relations toward the civil government, of which Gov. Taft is the head, is of very great interest. It reviews in detail the various steps taken, and shows that these steps were taken in conformity to the demands of the situation as they arose. Secretary Root shows that so far as his department of the government is concerned, the aim has steadily been to treat the Filipinos with the utmost liberality which they were capable of understanding and appreciating; that where severe measures were made necessary, they have been resorted to only after milder measures had failed to accomplish desired results; and that the purpose has been kept constantly in view of superseding the military power by civil power as soon as it was safe or feasible to make the change. If this change has been premature in some instances, the error has been on the side of too much leniency rather than too-little.

Secretary Root's direct references to the work of the army in the Philippines are highly complimentary to officers and men. "I cannot speak too highly of the work of the army in the Philippines," he says. "The officers and men have been equal to the best requirements, not only of military service, but of the civil administration with which they were charged in all its details from the date of our occupancy in August, 1898, until the inauguration of a civil Governor on the 4th of July, 1901."

A considerable part of Secretary Root's report is devoted to a review of Cuban affairs and the conditions there existing. He concludes this part of his report with an earnest plea in behalf of a reciprocal tariff arrangement, whereby Cuban sugar and tobacco may be admitted to our markets at a lower rate of duty, in exchange for the admission of American products into Cuba at a low rate of duty. It must be conceded that Secretary Root makes a strong argument for Cuban reciprocity—which, of course, could not be established, in any event, until a responsible government shall have been formed in the island. Under ordinary conditions the Secretary's argument on this point would be convincing. But there are considerations other than those which he cites, which render the question of reciprocity debatable. This question, in its entirety, will be dealt with by Congress, let us hope, in a spirit of fairness to all interests, and with a view to maintaining adequate protection for American producers.

SINGLE-TRACK DANGERS.

Probably the time will come when all the principal railway lines of the country will be equipped with double tracks throughout the entire distances which they cover. The terrible head-on collision near Seneca, Mich., which cost so grievous a sacrifice of human life, is but one case out of many which serve to emphasize the disastrous results that follow when two trains attempt to pass each other on the same track, both going at a high rate of speed.

A double-track system is, of course, more expensive than a single-track system. To equip a long line of railway with double tracks would add greatly to the cost of construction, and in many cases, where comparatively few trains are moved daily, the extra expenditure would not be warranted, from a financial point of view. Double tracks would not be so imperatively needed on lines of this character as on roads running a large number of trains daily. But on many roads of the latter class, the extra expense would prove a good investment. In the first place it would greatly increase the capacity of the road, obviating the necessity of waits at sidings, and doing away entirely with other annoyances and inconveniences incidental to single-track systems.

But the principal advantage to be derived from double tracks, from every point of view except, possibly, the financial, would be in the saving of human life which would be effected. Where trains move in opposite directions upon the same track, collisions are inevitable in spite of all human precautions. The most careful of engineers will sometimes grow careless. Orders will sometimes be forgotten or misunderstood, and precious human lives will be sacrificed in consequence.

If every railroad were equipped with double tracks, railway accidents would not be wholly done with, but they would be reduced to a comparatively trifling minimum. The needless sacrifice of even one human life is, or should be, a more important consideration than the expenditure of any number of thousands of dollars.

But—recurring to the financial side of the matter—it is at least a debatable question whether the equipment of great railway lines with double tracks would not prove a profitable investment in the long run. In addition to the greatly increased facilities for traffic, the large reduction which would be effected in the number of accidents would result in no inconsiderable saving of expenditure. Every accident like the one near Seneca is very costly to the railway company upon whose lines it occurs. The initial loss is heavy, in the destruction of rolling stock and the interruption of traffic. Then there are the suits for damages which must be defended, and the damages to be paid, which in many cases are heavy. Added to these expenses is the loss of prestige which a road suffers when it has frequent accidents—and this is by no means least among the sources of loss.

But, as has been said, safety to human life is the first desideratum. Before it, all other considerations shrink into insignificance. No measures and no precautions which will increase the security of life on the railroads should be neglected. Nor is it sound business policy on the part of railroad corporations to neglect these precautions. The time may come when every railroad carrying traffic above a certain definite amount will be compelled by law to equip its entire line with double tracks.

THE SUNDAY TIMES.

The Times tomorrow will be loaded with good things for its readers. The Illustrated Magazine will of itself be a literary feast.

Included in the contents of the Magazine will be a letter by that unexcelled descriptive writer, Frank G. Carpenter, describing the strange people occupying some of the Dutch East India Islands.

Bird fanciers—and everybody admires birds—will be interested in an illustrated article on aviaries in Southern California and the rare and beautiful birds contained in them.

The first election of a Chief Magistrate of the new nation of Cuba is approaching. Gen. Emilio Nunez, civil Governor of Havana, has written for tomorrow's Magazine a review of the political situation in the island.

The recent trial of the new Gathmann gun has attracted much attention. An expert in the Navy Department at Washington will tell the readers of the Magazine about its fearful work.

A correspondent who was once for some time among such brigands on the Turkish borders as are now holding Miss Stone for a ransom has contributed an article relating his personal experiences and describing the men whom he met.

An article which will especially interest women, and particularly girls, will be one written by Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, who describes girlhood as it was seventy years ago, when she herself was a girl, and the changes in conditions surrounding girls that have taken place since that time.

Only a few of the valuable articles the Magazine will contain can be mentioned here, but the foregoing will serve as an indication of what may be expected.

But the Magazine will not contain all the good things of tomorrow's issue. The large sheets will present a number of valuable special features, among these will be, for instance, another article in the valuable series on "Practical Politics," by William H. ("Buck") Heinrichsen. Then there will be some exceedingly interesting folklore tales gathered from reliable native sources by an officer in the United States military service in the Philippines, and never before published. A character sketch of Dato Jokanain, next to the Sultan the most important native in the Island of Sulu, has both an intrinsic and a timely interest. Other attractive contributions and special features added to the exhaustive news service and other regular features of this paper will make tomorrow's issue of the Times one which cannot fail to more than satisfy the most exacting reader.

It appears that Engineer Strong, who jumped and saved his life in the awful wreck on the Wabash Railroad, misread his orders. Isn't it about time that men in such responsible positions, with hundreds of lives in their keeping every day, learned to be "sure they are right" before going ahead?

A Chicago judge has decreed that spanking and flogging are harmful to boys over 10 years old. If that judge ever wants to be President of the United States the school boys over 10 years of age will see to it that he gets there.

The marines of the battleship Iowa, who are doing guard duty at Colon, must feel a nervous itching of their trigger fingers at the scrapping which is going on around them, while they are unable to put a finger in the pie.

Russia is of the opinion that both England and the South African republics should quit trying to crowd each other out of bed and snuggle down peaceably together under the same blanket.

Drinking a glass of milk from Editor Bryan's $450 heifer must cause the same sort of expensive feeling to creep over Billy Boy as the chap experiences who drinks a glass of genuine Mumm's extra dry.

The importation of American goods into Russia is causing the Russian bear to clank his chain and growl threateningly at the inroads which Uncle Sam is making in the industries of the country.

The woman who has decided to give her husband a box of cigars for a Christmas present has spoken her mind. Hubby will speak his when he lights one of the cigars.

And now we have a trust in condensed milk started. It would appear, however, that the condensed article is the only kind we can trust nowadays—in Los Angeles, at least.

The transcontinental railroads, which appear to have an ear to the ground, would fain throw the dirt back as fast as it is shoveled out in that canal deal.

There is a block in New York which is said to be the wickedest in the whole world. We don't doubt it. Dick Croker hasn't sailed for Wantage yet.

Northwestern University girls have dropped their fad for spinsterhood. Most girls nowadays will drop any old thing for a husband.

The two new pianos which have been placed in the White House will probably not keep the neighbors awake nights.

In that canal proposition it appears to be a case of "How happy I'd be with either, were t'other dear charmer away."

Terry McGovern is now busily engaged, as was Ruhlin a few days ago, in wondering "how on earth it was done."

Once again Gen. Alban seems to have command of the punctuation marks at Colon, for a period, at least.

The pumpkin crop in Maryland is reported as being a poor one. However, they yet have Senator Wellington.

What has become of Gen. Double Uribe? Has he been hyphenized out of the South American squabble?

The glass trust will put up prices in a few days. Now is the time to order those Christmas diamonds for your wife.

President Roosevelt's message will possess both quantity and quality.

Marquis Ito and Czar Nick have shaken hands and called it square.

One Author's Method.

When a writer's style is charming it is interesting to know how he works. John Luther Long of this city has a charming style, and works in a peculiar manner. Suppose it is a novel that he is doing. Having his plot well mapped out, he sits down before his typewriter and numbers—1, 2, 3, 4 and so on—a great many large sheets of copy paper. Then he begins to write as fast as his fingers can move, not pausing for a word, but if he can't think of the right word, leaving a blank space for it and pushing on; and in from four to six sittings his novel is finished from beginning to end, and lies strewn on the floor. That, maybe, will take a week. Then he begins to correct, to polish, and this may take six months or a year. The advantage of Mr. Long's method is that his novel, being done in the rough in a few sittings, has life in it. Furthermore, he does not lose courage and interest amid the manifold toils and worries of polishing, as those authors are apt to do who revise as they go along, from the first chapter, and, maybe, losing heart, never bring the last chapter to an end.—[Philadelphia Record.

STATE SNAPSHOTS.

Christmas comes next.

Get your pocketbook in condition for it.

'Frisco chauffeurs are indulging in "moonlight runs." They are expecting some smashing good times almost any night.

A Placerville grocer advertises "fragrant limburger cheese for sale." Did he ever smell any other kind of limburger?

The merry-go-round at Redlands has left for San Pedro to punish the pocketbooks and tickle the fancies of the kids of the town.

The Redlands band has bought a new tuba—a welcome addition to drown out the other discords. They should have had a tuba four.

The wily footpad is now stopping the milkmen in 'Frisco town. He'll begin shooting, of course, in due time, all same Los Angeles.

Pomona women are experimenting in bread-making. Hobos who receive "poke-outs" in that town are warned against indigestion.

Hair-cutting prices in Pomona have dropped from two bits to 15 cents. Still, the Pomona College chaps say it is no temptation to them.

A Pasadena woman claims to have discovered the murderer of the Wilcox family at Downey, but Pasadena is claiming lots of things nowadays.

Teachers in Throop Institute at Pasadena have organized a "tramping club." It is hardly the proper thing for Pasadena to foster and encourage the hobo habit.

Now that the football season is over, how will the doctors and surgeons keep out of debt until next summer, unless the shotgun continues to depopulate the country towns?

A 'Frisco man tried to smuggle cigars into the country by filling his stockings with the smokers. He was apprehended and now the customhouse officials propose to sock it to him.

The "Indiana Cyclone" is in town, and all the people from Kansas and the riproaring States cast anxious looks toward the heavens at every little breeze which springs up.

A sidewalk bicycle fund has been started at Pasadena. Everybody is contributing so freely that the town justice talks of buying a new safe in which to keep the money.

Pasadena has tested her new fire engine, and she runs as smooth as grease and throws a stream of water with enough force to drown out anything that will ever strike the town.

Riverside is advising the use of individual drinking cups. There is altogether too much of this passing the bottle around going on. The drug stores should lay in a supply at once.

A Modesto man fell off a ladder and hurt his back. The News winds up an account of the accident by saying that "the ladder was broken." Whether the man was broken anywhere is not stated.

A little Pomona girl drank a cup of water into which a yeast cake had been placed to dissolve, and now she rises so early every morning that none of the rest of the family can finish their forty winks of sleep.

It beats all how many little daughters of J. N. Powell are jumping on ten-penny nails in different parts of the country, and all are cured by the same old patent medicine. Have you noticed it?

Charlie Mihahn has an up-to-date oil burner in his kitchen and will now use oil as fuel.—[Fresno Republican. And Charlie will get eternally "fussed" on the stuff one of these crispy mornings, if he don't watch out.

Good Methodist brethren and sisteren of Kern City, who played cards at a social one night recently, have gotten themselves in a pretty scrape. Look not upon the deck when it is shuffled, for it leadeth to the poker table eventually.

The grammar-school girls of Throop Institute made a batch of biscuits a couple of days ago. If you are in need of a splendid hitching weight or a sledge hammer, the girls would be glad to have you call and inspect their stock.

A San Luis Obispo county rancher has invented a flying machine which will spread its wings the Fourth of July. It will also probably spread the inventor over several acres of sage brush when it gets its dander up on that auspicious day.

A northern paper bewails the fact that the city of Alameda is not known outside its immediate vicinity. Go to, thou kicker. Alameda has the prettiest girls to be found in the State—north of Los Angeles—and that is fame enough for any city.

A Fresno-county minister announced as a solo at his Thanksgiving exercises "A Shining Crown Is Mine," and the baldheaded tenor who sang it said afterward that it finally dawned upon him why the people tittered when he arose to sing the piece.

A Santa Maria young lady has passed through the most trying period of her existence. A pet dog chewed one of her pretty lips and she has not been able to talk for six straight days. It would appear that a woman can keep her mouth shut when the occasion demands it.

Billy Davis of the Stockton Mail was the recipient of six huge pumpkin pies from a female admirer. Billy has asked for a vacation, and it is reported that the buttons which cover his digestive plant have been so strained that there is danger of their going on a strike.

An Illinois youth who is visiting in Redlands drank something out of a bottle which he supposed was water, but which turned out to be "pizen." Bottled goods in Redlands are dangerous to monkey with, anyway, unless the druggist sticks on one of his "not dangerous" tags.

The Willows Journal is running a prize-story contest, and the literary editor, the book reviewer and the janitor are losing sleep and getting crow's feet in the corners of their eyes, trying to decide on whether to give the first prize to a pretty girl of the town, or a deserving youth with a shiny spot on the seat of his pants.

A 'Frisco 'mobolist, who had just bought a $1000 machine, tried to run it through an obstacle, in a series of stunts. A huge ball was tossed in front of the auto, and the dingus snorted, took the power in its teeth, stood up on its hind legs and did the bucking act so successfully that there wasn't enough left of the machine to make a boy's go-cart by the time it came to.

OLD OMAR SINGS.

What is there left the singer but a song
Of sweet, elusive witchery and pain—
A haunting echo, strong as death is strong,
The wraith of some long-vanished poet's brain?

Old Omar sings, and down the centuries
The perfume of rare roses softly streams;
Lo, with red wine I drink old blasphemies,
Or walk with Allah through immortal dreams!

Old Omar sings; and from the firmament
That hides the secret of our questioning
Is heard the voice of One omnipotent—
And lo, is soothed all mortal suffering!

CURRENT COMMENT.

Know He's Muzzled.

Mr. Croker has caught his breath and is talking in low, deep, disgruntled growls. But nobody seems scared the least bit.—[Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Rival Sports.

It is about time to begin footing up the list of casualties from deer hunting and football. This has been a lively season in each of these gentle sports.—[Minneapolis Times.

The House Committee of the new Woman's Club will now have an opportunity to see if tea will produce as much revenue as the things men drink in their clubs.—[New York Press.

Cuba's Politics.

Ninety per cent. of the business men and property holders of Cuba want the island annexed to the United States. The other 10 per cent. probably want public offices in case Cuba becomes a separate republic.—[Chicago Record-Herald.

New Spell of Political Weather.

With President Roosevelt insisting that individual merit shall be considered rather than political pull, and Mr. Low pledged to much the same thing in New York, it looks as if a general change in governmental fashions might occur.—[Washington Star.

Shies at Obvious Truths.

There is a lamentable amount of skepticism in the world. The public has been deceived so often with fake stories that it now looks askance at such reasonable narratives as that about the explosion of a lake of oil by a failing meteor, down in the Territory.—[Kansas City Journal.

Good Thing to Copy.

In Chicago there is an organization of charitable persons who do business with those unfortunates who would otherwise have to have recourse to pawnbrokers. The company has just made a report that it has netted a profit of nearly 13 per cent. on its capital stock of $160,000 in the past year. That does pretty well for a charity.—[Buffalo Express.

A Wise Frenchman.

The French journalist who predicts the world supremacy of the United States within the present century is merly exercising the usual journalistic prescience and his advice to his own country to make friends with ours in such a way as to secure a fair share of American trade is wise. It means reciprocity and mutual trade advantages, rather than commercial war. —[Philadelphia Ledger.

The Greater Power.

A blot on the success of the horse show in New York is the activity of the Anti-Cruelty Society, forced by the employment of torturing devices on fashionable driving horses. It is now in order for the real lovers of man's best friend to make cruelty unfashionable, and it will disappear much sooner than because it is merely wicked.—[Baltimore American.

A Life-saving Measure.

Automobilists in and around Camden county, N. J., are angry because any person arresting an automobile driver going more than ten miles an hour in that county after December 1 will be entitled to half the prescribed fine of $10. Gas at Four Cents Per 1000 Feet.

In 1881, Sir Frederick Bramwell prophesied that in fifty years steam engines would only be found in museums, and all motive power would be derived from internal combustion motors—oil engines, gas engines and the like. Not one-half of this period has elapsed and a long step has already been made toward the fulfilment of Sir Frederick's prophecy. Until quite recently the chief argument against the gas engine has been the relatively high cost of its fuel. But now Dr. Ludwig Mond has perfected a gas producer which will manufacture gas of such exceeding cheapness as to put the gas engine on a par with the steam engine so far as cost of gas is concerned. Dr. Mond uses the poorest sort of bituminous slack, and while converting it into gas saves the greater part of the ammonia it contains, which amounts to about $1.10 worth per ton of coal. A ton of this slack can be bought for about $1.50, and will produce 150,000 cubic feet of gas. A company has been formed in England which proposes to manufacture the Mond gas and deliver it over an area of 135 square miles. An act of Parliament has already been passed authorising the scheme. The gas is to be sold at 4 cents per 1000 feet.—[Engineering.

MEIGS TELLS LOVE TALES.

"Indiana Cyclone" Wins Convention.

Meeting of Los Angeles County Workers.

Two Large Assemblages Yesterday—Good Programme Arranged for Today.

"I met a boy in Chicago who walked four miles to Sunday-school.

"'Are there no schools on your side of town?' I asked.

"'Oh, y—yes, but I'd rather go over yonder.'

"'Rather walk four miles—why?'

"'Well, sir, I'll tell you—they seem to kind er love a feller over there.'

"I once went out on the gospel wagon in Boston. As I sat listening to the speaker I happened to look down and there was a dirty little face looking right up into mine.

"I reached down and rubbed my hand around his chin, and his eyes seemed to say: 'Do it some more;' so I did it some more.

"Then I felt his little hand come into mine, and I sat there and made love to him until it came my turn to talk.

"When I sat down again I had forgotten all about it, when I felt a little warm hand come stealing into mine. Just then the policeman called out:

"'Move on; can't stop more than twenty minutes in one place.'

"We drove several blocks farther and stopped again, and as I sat there I suddenly felt a little warm hand again come up into mine, and there was the same little boy.

"It's a blessed thing to touch the heart of a boy with the golden key of affection."

This was part of Charles D. Meigs's talk yesterday on unlocking a boy's heart, at the County Sunday-school Convention now in session in the First Methodist Church.

If Mr. Meigs proved himself a cyclone of wit and wisdom on the previous evening, he yesterday disclosed the other side of his personality. His pathos and humor were so interwoven and fired off with such Gatling-gun rapidity and effectiveness that he seemed to be appropriately named "The Indiana Cyclone." His voice is mellow with sympathy, and he had his hearers hanging between laughter and weeping most of the time, without giving them a chance to do either one or the other.

THE CONVENTION.

Three interesting sessions of the convention were held yesterday, large audiences being present at each, but particularly in the evening, when the capacity of the house was again tested to hold the crowd.

INVOLVED THE COMMISSARY.

On the question of the value of lesson helps, C. B. Crosier made a good talk, and in one of his illustrations said:

"Going along the street I saw a sign that read:

"'Good coffee, only 15 cents a pound.'

"If we have learned to use good coffee, 15-cent coffee won't satisfy us, nor will we wish to serve it to others. The teacher who depends upon lesson helps for his inspiration, instead of upon the Bible, is serving 15-cent coffee to his class."

The "Indiana Cyclone" blew in these two good ones:

"A razor-strap is not a good thing to shave with, but a mighty help to sharp a dull razor.

"You use a skillet to fry things in, but you leave the skillet where it belongs and take the fried stuff into the dining-room.

"When I see a teacher going to Sunday-school with his lesson-help instead of his Bible, I always think: 'There goes a man with a skillet under his arm.'"

A delegate stood up to defend the apparently much-abused "helps," and he made a strong point when he said:

"I never would have been converted if it hadn't been for the leaflet. I wouldn't at that time look inside of a Bible."

Another thought there was danger of belittling the leaflet too much, and that most of the delegates who used it and wanted it, were being made to feel that its use was a weakness.

It turned out that nobody wanted to get rid of the "helps," but they were just being "jumped on," in order that they might not be permitted to crowd out the Bible, as a whole.

At the close of this discussion Capt. Worth sang a solo with fine effect, and Mr. Meigs began his talk on "Unlocking the Door of the Scholar's Heart." Among other things, he said to teachers:

GETTING AT THE BOYS.

"Your troubles are usually from one bad boy in the class. You can't do anything with a bad boy unless you get him by himself. Even a Hoosier rancher wouldn't attempt to break six fractious colts at one time.

"I once met a boy and asked him:

"'Do you love your teacher?'

"'I hain't nothin' partic'lar ag'inst her.'

"I met another and asked the same question, and he said:

"'You bet; she's a dandy.'

"You may well excuse the slang and overlook the proposition to bet, for you're not much of a teacher if your scholars simply have nothing against you.

"Teacher, do you know the birthdays of your boys? If you don't just hurry up and get ashamed of yourself.

"I went to a store and asked for a half dozen keys to a boy's heart. She wanted steel pens. Teacher, do you catch on? When shall you write to the boys? Oh, just pardon an expression of the street—most any old time."

Rev. F. M. Dowling followed with an excellent talk on "The Old Book in the New Century."

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

The following committees were appointed before the noon adjournment:

On Nominations—Dr. H. W. Brodbeck, Newman Esseck, C. D. Storer, Will I. Shaffer, James G. Warren, Mrs. W. A. Atkin, Mrs. F. J Cressey. On Resolutions, Prof. Tritt, J. A. Wright, F. B. Crosier, Prof. Crow. On Credentials, Dr. Smith, C. B. Messenger, Miss Helen Marryman.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The devotional exercises were led by Dr. P. F. Bresee, who in the course of his remarks said:

"There are lots of fellows now trying to crowd the church back into Judaism, but in doing so they simply crowd it back into Paganism."

A DOUBLE-TRACK HIGHWAY.

C. D. Meigs, on this theme, said the eye was a great double-track highway to the memory.

"The first thing the boy says is, 'Let me see; let me see.' Learn to show them by the eyes and you'll by the ears every lookers and your thinker the pictures.

"You wonder what I'm now, when I lay my Bible. I've got you by the ears. The knife and both alike. So long as shut you can't use it."

Mr. Meigs then made shots with a popgun, from his pocket. Among he said:

"Old Dr. Founding think that nothing but sary.

"Be careful not to heads of your class. 'Feed my lambs.' He my giraffes.'"

Messrs. Hartley, three Sunday-school talked interestingly of the California field.

GROCERS SAY NO CUT RATES.

Local Retailers Rebuke Jobbers' Agent.

Not Awed by His Threat of a Lawsuit.

Gross License Ordinance Arouses Suspicions of Dealers in Ham and Eggs.

People who think that the purveyors of goods, codfish, imitation coffees, and other edibles exist on a bed of roses in the Angel City, should disabuse their minds of the idea. The small grocers have real troubles of their own, and a room full of these dealers met last night in Concordia Hall, No. 170½ North Main street, to bear their mutual woes.

It was the regular meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association, and there was a fair prospect of its settling down into a cold-blooded discussion of the price of ham and eggs; but when the association got at business there was enough doing to keep every one awake.

Foremost was a matter of special interest to O. E. Lowe, a resident agent for Bridenstein & Co., San Francisco jobbers. It seems that a stock of goods had been bought, for which Lowe paid with his personal checks. The goods were taken by his brother, who was a former employé in his office, to Boyle Heights, and a grocery store was opened, at which prices were cut below regular rates.

The association notified the San Francisco house of this alleged violation of commercial ethics, and now Lowe claims that the money paid for the goods was his brother's, he only keeping it for him, and that the association, by its action, might cause him to lose his position, in which case he would bring suit against the secretary for damages. Mr. Lowe wanted the association to vindicate his action.

After a consideration of the subject the grocers refused to become humble and the association declared it could make no other deduction than that the goods were Lowe's.

The association discussed measures looking toward the maintenance of uniform prices on condensed creams and the local creamery products.

Much interest was manifested in a discussion of the proposed city license tax of $300 for grocers' solicitors, and the secretary of the association stated that he had the assurance of three councilmen that the clause referred only to solicitors coming from firms outside of the city. The question was asked as to whether the required license for sellers of fruit and cigars would apply to regular groceries. The more the question was discussed the further the provision purveyors drifted to sea, and it was finally decided to have the secretary secure a copy of the ordinance, and also expressions from the Councilmen as to its intentions, and present the matter at the association meeting next week.

Peerless Company Will Pay Dividend. McKittrick Shipped Much Oil During November—Large Sale of Kern Property Now Pending.

The oil interests of the whole State are awaiting the result of the attempt to consolidate the interests of the Kern River, McKittrick and Sunset fields, and with the exception of the latter section there are few rigs at work in Kern county.

PROPERTY INVESTMENTS.

Thirty-thousand-dollar Sale on South Main Street, and Hundred Acres on West Sixth Street.

The northwest corner of Main and Sixth streets was yesterday sold by A. W. Rhodes to Richard G. Beebe for $30,000. The property has a frontage of fifty-two feet on Main street and a depth of 125 feet. The deal was made through W. M. Garland & Co. The price is considered low, inasmuch as $1750 a front foot was refused for the corresponding corner at Sixth street and Broadway within the past ten days, and $100,000 for sixty feet on the corresponding corner of Sixth and Spring streets.

HUNDRED ACRES SOLD.

A. E. Pomeroy, Lee A. McConnell and others have sold to W. W. Cockins, through the agency of R. W. Poindexter, a tract of land containing 100 acres, fronting on Sixth street, a short distance west of Western avenue, for $25,000. The tract is level and pretty, and very suitable for subdivision. It was bought as an investment.

ON SOUTH MAIN.

The Hammill & Denker estate has sold a plot of land lying on the east side of Main street, between Tenth and Eleventh, having a frontage of 114 feet by a depth of 180 feet, to A. W. Rhodes for $150 a front foot.

Walkover Shoes

Always $3.50

For Men and Women.

It's an easy matter to sell a good pair of shoes for $5 or $6—but it's quite a trick to build a shapely, reliable shoe to retail for three dollars and a half. It has required a great deal of thought—and some very careful calculating to bring Walk-over Shoes up to the present high standard. We know them to be the equal of any shoes sold elsewhere for Five Dollars.

In fact, the Walk-Over is a $5.00 shoe for $3.50 and it's the only shoe on the market in which this saving is really made.

AT THE CITY HALL.

LICENSE ORDINANCE IS CAUSING MUCH PROTEST.

COUNCIL MAY RECALL AND REVISE OBJECTIONABLE MEASURE.

Secretary Zeehandelaar of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association Declares That He Never Meant to Say What Bowen Says He Said—Franchise Matters.

A determined effort will be made to induce the Council to recall the license ordinance at the session next Monday. It is stated that this course has met favor with some of the members who favor the measure, because of the attitude of the Mayor. While the Chief Executive of the city will not state definitely what his action will be, there is little doubt that he will veto the ordinance unless it is recalled by the Council.

Last night the ordinance had not reached the Mayor, as new copies of it are being made, and he has not had any official opportunity to review its provisions. However, from the protests that have come to the office ever since its provisions were published last Tuesday morning, Mayor Snyder has gained a very good idea of where the shoe pinches.

"I have not yet seen the ordinance," declared the Mayor last night, "but I know that there is much objection to it. It seems to me that the Council could remedy any defects that may exist in the measure as it stands, by giving it a little more consideration.

"But, what revenue the ordinance will bring to the city treasury should be considered, and then it would be possible for the Council to limit the operation of the measure to such a length of time as will meet the existing deficit. I do not know that such figures have been made, and if they have not been, the Council must be in the dark.

"My mind has not been made up as yet whether to sign or veto the ordinance, but I certainly shall scrutinize it closely before approving it, because of the protests against it. It may be that the Council will recall the ordinance on Monday, and change it to a less objectionable form, in which case I would not be obliged to act on it as it now stands."

Between Secretary Zeehandelaar of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association and Councilman Bowen has arisen a controversy regarding the former's stand on the license ordinance. Mr. Bowen stated on the floor of the Council chamber last Monday that the ordinance has the approval of Secretary Zeehandelaar, and it was presumed that he spoke for the association which he represents.

Yesterday Mr. Bowen reiterated his statement, and declared that he asked the permission of the secretary to use his name before doing so in the session of the Council. He declared, further, that he and Secretary Zeehandelaar spent over an hour in discussing the provisions of the ordinance before an agreement was reached.

In spite of these statements, Secretary Zeehandelaar declares that the interpretation of his position is misleading. Yesterday he dictated the following statement of his position:

"Since the passage by the City Council on Monday last of the so-called license ordinance, statements have appeared that the measure had received my indorsement as secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association. As these statements are misleading, I wish to submit the following facts:

"A similar ordinance was prepared by the City Council during the month of August last, and at that time the board of directors of this association, with a number of members, appeared before the Council to protest against the passage of that ordinance, and as a consequence the measure was not introduced. Subsequently I was informed that the matter would come up again, and that the Council was determined to ask the merchants to pay the deficit remaining in the cash fund at the present time.

"Last Saturday I was informed that on the following Monday the license ordinance would be again introduced, and that enough votes had been secured to insure its passage by the Council. I immediately interviewed several of the Councilmen, and late in the afternoon I was shown a copy of the proposed measure, and discussed the matter thoroughly with Councilmen Bowen and Lauder, after having protested against its passage to Councilmen Allen and Blanchard.

"On behalf of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, I stated that our position on the question had not been changed. This association believes that the ordinance, as passed on Monday, is unjust, discriminating and class legislation. I was assured that the ordinance was only a temporary measure, in order to wipe out the deficit in the cash fund now existing. I pointed out to the Councilmen that, inasmuch as a deficit has been created for the benefit of the entire city, the entire taxable property should contribute to the liquidation of the existing indebtedness. I further contended that there is neither law nor justice in licensing, for example, wholesale cigar dealers, without levying a similar tax on any other wholesale business. It was also shown to the Councilmen that by selecting a few classes of retail merchants a grievous [illegible] was done them, and that a general tax should be levied to make good the deficit. The Councilmen, however, would not consent to a general taxation, and I succeeded in making the best terms I could under the circumstances.

"Our tax rate for the city and county is 2.65 on every $100 valuation, while San Francisco's tax levy is 1.07 for city and county. Our merchants are obliged to pay the heaviest part of that burden, inasmuch as they are taxed not only for their personal property, but for stock, solvent credits, money in bank, etc. To place an additional tax on the merchants is, in the opinion of our association, unjustifiable, and will not be tolerated, if any legal way can be devised against the operation of the ordinance. Judge C. C. Wright, our attorney, is now formulating an opinion on this subject, and if the validity of the license ordinance can be successfully attacked such a course will be pursued by this association.

"According to the books of the City Auditor the deficit in the cash fund to date amounts to $94,488.87. There are now pending before the City Council applications for valuable railway franchises, and judging from the sale of the last franchise from which the city realized $30,250, it may be confidently expected that the sale of the franchises now asked for will be more than sufficient to liquidate the entire indebtedness of the city. There is no apparent reason for undue haste in the passage of the license ordinance, and the City Council ought to await the result of the sale of these railway franchises and apply the money so received toward the payment of the deficit now existing. That, to my mind, is the only just, equitable and business-like solution of the financial question.

"In the interest and sinking fund of the waterworks illegally collected, there is now $13,234.64 that should be applied to the liquidation of the indebtedness, and that course is open to the City Council, according to an opinion filed by our attorney, Judge Wright, on August 12 last.

"It has always been the claim of this association, and is at the present time, that no license tax ought to be levied except on such classes of business as require police protection and police supervision. I believe in this brief statement I have made it plain that neither this association nor I, as its secretary, have endorsed or sanctioned the obnoxious ordinance, but that I was forced to submit to a compromise that seemed to me to be the only concession the Council was willing to grant the merchants."

No end of commotion has been caused by the license that the Council proposes to levy. Regarding the tax on agents and solicitors, one who is well informed has the following to say:

"According to the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court, the City Council will find itself in the wrong, if the new license ordinance becomes law. It is an attack on individual labor and freedom, and the publishing firms are ready to defend their rights at all costs.

"No decision of the United States Supreme Court has attracted more widespread interest than that delivered by Justice Bradley, exempting agents, canvassers, distributors, patentees and traveling salesmen from all special State, county and town taxes.

"All such special license or tax laws are declared to be unconstitutional, and any law officer who attempts to enforce them is individually liable for damages and stands in contempt of court."

BAND MUSIC.

SOLOS IN THE MINOR KEY.

Among the band musicians there is weeping and wailing and trouble without end. The union musicians are unhappy because the non-union men are allowed to live and produce sweet harmony, and because the street-car companies will not haul them to and from the parks without charge the non-unionists are steeped in sorrow.

Director Burtlin of the Los Angeles Military Band told his troubles to Secretary Hopkins of the park department yesterday. He protests strenuously against the order of the Park Board decreeing that no band shall play in the same park on successive Sundays. He says that the band has a contract for a year with the Los Angeles Railway Company and that the rule will not only work a hardship on all bands, but will cause his organization financial loss.

Secretary Hopkins gave the director a permit to play in Eastlake Park next Sunday and also informed him that if the band plays on the following Sabbath he will have to choose another park.

C. Tychsen, director of the Bank of La Grande Commandery, No. 1, Fraternal Brotherhood, is endeavoring to secure subscriptions from the merchants on Broadway to support weekly concerts to be given in front of the City Hall. The director expects to arrange for thirteen concerts at $60 per concert, to begin very soon. If negotiations go through the band will play on Saturday evenings from 7 to 10 o'clock. Quite a number of merchants have already agreed to pay various amounts and the Council will be asked to grant a permit to build a grand stand over the sidewalk at the Monday session.

TODD IN LINE.

TO SUBLET THE MARKET.

Woe is today the portion of the remnant of the "Solid Six" in the Council who voted for the maintenance of the so-called public market at Third street and Central avenue. As was surmised when the ordinance curtailing the gas limit in the Eighth Ward passed the Council last Monday, Todd of that bailiwick has seen himself as in a glass darkly and is prepared to support decisive action regarding the white elephant that has been sapping the life of the municipality.

"I still believe, as I did when I voted to remove the market, that the present site is the best one of the two," declared Councilman Todd yesterday. "If the hucksters and market men had seen fit to patronize the city's stalls, I believe the market at the present location would have been a greater success than the old one. However, that has not happened, and unless there is some good reason to believe that the market can be made to pay, I cannot conscientiously longer vote to pay out money for its support.

"As a Councilman of this city I do not believe that it is in line with my duties to support a proposition which, after a fair trial, proves to be a drain upon the city's finances. I did believe that, sooner or later, the market would be made to pay, but with the elapse of time my faith in such an outcome has waned. We cannot longer pay a salary to an inspector at the market unless the city derives some income from it. I am convinced of that. If any way whereby the market can speedily be made to pay is presented, I might favor its maintenance for a longer period, otherwise I believe the Council must take some steps to secure a revenue from the market building."

This declaration on the part of the member from the Eighth has driven Councilman Lauder and his cogitators to despair. Upon the brink of a yawning precipice they hang, fearful to take the leap of folly and well-nigh powerless to turn back. That they could be forced to such an extremity did not occur to them two weeks ago, but at that time they did not foresee the fever heat of the contest between the gas companies. Now they are cast down and will not be comforted.

Inspector Kirby was appointed by Lauder, and he has bent every energy to maintaining the sinecure for his man. Almost every expedient that could be brought to bear outside the Council has been tried without success. The market has proven an utter failure, so Lauder, Pierce, McLain and Walker, the four stoics, are bound to admit.

The market has cost the city over $3000 and its revenues amount to the mere pittance of $22. Now the members of the "Solid Six" are much grieved that they parted with that $22. They unanimously vote it a plain case of money wasted.

It is understood that some motion anent the public market will be made at the Council session on Monday, but members of the Council are very reticent on the subject. The strings are now drawn to a high tension, and there is great fear that something may break.

Blanchard announced himself in favor of subletting the market some time ago, and now that Todd has been won over, Bowen, Allen and Powers, the Council minority on the market question, seem to be in a position to change the tune of affairs at Third street and Central avenue.

KAYS FRANCHISE.

COMPLICATIONS PROMISED.

It was demonstrated to the satisfaction of all concerned yesterday afternoon that James C. Kays's application for a franchise is not made in the interest of the Los Angeles Railway Company. "Billy" Dunn appeared before the Board of Public Works to protest against the route selected.

The application contemplates a double-track street-car line, with electric motor power, to run from the Santa Fé depot to the end of the old Temple-street cable railway line at the city limits through the Seventh, Third and Second wards. A part of the line runs over Sixth street from Olive to Flower street, and there's the rub.

The Washington-street cars of the Los Angeles Railway Company run over this section of Sixth street under a franchise granted to the company some years ago. Not long ago the same company bought the belt-line franchise for $30,000, and that franchise runs over the same section of Sixth street.

The railway franchise law provides that not more than two franchises he'd by different companies shall run over the same section of street for the prescribed five blocks. So long as the two franchises were held by the Los Angeles Railway Company there was no difficulty in securing another franchise over the street by paying a portion of the cost of construction as prescribed by law.

Attorney Dunn had a meditative moment last week, when he suddenly decided to buy the belt-line franchise for the Pacific Electric Railway Company, which is controlled by the same men who own the Los Angeles Railway Company. After the transfer had been effected in Dunn's mind from one corporation to another, he had a quiet smile and bided his time, which came yesterday.

When the Kays franchise was under consideration by the Board of Public Works, Attorney Dunn came in and declared that it would be unlawful to build another road over the described portion of Sixth street. Of course, he didn't care a hang about it, he said, but merely thought he would call the attention of the attorney on the other side to a point he might have overlooked. Mr. Kays was informed of the transfer, by virtue of which Dunn now claims that two different companies hold franchises over that portion of Sixth street.

"We will fight the matter in the courts," said Attorney Dunn as a clincher.

This announcement so disarranged the plans of Mr. Kays that the board postponed further consideration of the matter until the disputed point is settled, or some way to get around it presents itself.

A large number of minor petitions received the attention of the board yesterday.

Street Superintendent McGuire informed the members of the board that he is now placarding Seventh street from Main to Figueroa streets, preparatory to paving the street.

The board decided to recommend to the Council that Sixth street, between Hill and Broadway, be paved. The poor condition of the street was called to the attention of the board by the Street Superintendent some weeks ago.

MUST PAY FEES.

STREET-GRADING ORDINANCE.

An ordinance has been prepared for presentation to the Council on Monday, which will force street-grading contractors to pay the City Engineer's fees on cement work and compel them to put in curbs and sidewalks under city supervision. The ordinance has received the support of the City Engineer, Street Superintendent, Finance Committee, and members of the Board of Public Works.

At present the small street contractors are playing a very shrewd game by which the city pays the cost of surveying curb and sidewalk lines. Application is made to the Council for permission to grade a street by private contract. Before the ordinance is passed a permit to lay the curbs and sidewalk is taken out in the Street Superintendent's office in the name of the property owners. The curbs and sidewalks are put in at once and later the street is improved under inspection of the Street Superintendent. Then the city is asked to accept the street, the curbs and sidewalks which have been put in without any inspection.

Of the four surveying parties kept in the field by the City Engineer, two are generally required to keep up with the permit work. As no revenue is derived from this class of work, about half the engineer's staff is kept busy on surveys that do not bring in any return.

The ordinance prepared is to be an amendment to Ordinance 3052. It prescribes an engineer's fee of 2 cents per lineal foot for curb and ½ a cent per square foot for sidewalks, and the contractor must pay $3 a day for an inspector to supervise the work and see that the cement is laid according to specifications.

Last week work on thirty-one streets was referred to the City Engineer and the office has been fairly swamped. In order to lighten the pressure the City Engineer has prepared the ordinance. It is favored by the best contractors who do their work well and willingly pay inspection fees. The contractors who make a profit by the use of inferior material are the ones who will oppose the measure.

FIRE COMMISSION.

REFUSES RECONSIDERATION.

At the meeting of the Fire Commission yesterday morning Commissioner Jacob Kuhrts, according to programme, moved that the vote taken at the last meeting, by which a gas permit was given to Mrs. Caroline W. Dobbins, be reconsidered. Mayor Snyder and Kuhrts voted in favor of the motion and the other commissioners against it. This vote apparently settles the question, as far as the Fire Commission is concerned.

Chief Strohm reported that there is considerable objection to the location of the plant of the Imperial Refining and Asphalt Company at Ellery and Shearer streets. The board took no action on the company's application for a steam boiler, and postponed consideration of the matter for one week.

On motion the commission accepted for the firemen's relief fund $100, which was sent to the Chief by the Western Wholesale Drug Company in recognition of the services of the fire department at the recent fire in the company's warehouse on Main street.

During the week there were seven alarms of fire, the loss being $1910.

FORCE RETAINED.

MUCH WORK ON STREET.

On Monday the Finance Committee will recommend to the Council that the forty-five laborers and twenty teams constituting the Street Superintendent's extra force be retained for another month. It is almost certain that the report will be approved.

This decision is one of great importance because of the amount of work that needs to be done on the city streets. Already the extra force has been busy for two months, and much has been accomplished, but there is still much to do. The heavy winter rains have cut the streets badly and the large area covered by the city makes it almost impossible to keep the streets in good repair.

The Finance Committee yesterday debated the advisability of retaining the extra force. It was at first proposed to keep only half of the number of extra laborers, but Superintendent McGuire finally persuaded the committee that the entire extra force is badly needed.

PARK FORCE.

ANOTHER CUT IMMINENT.

Several members of the Council are much dissatisfied with the recent cut made in the park force because their men were the ones to suffer. Councilman McLain lost two and has been angry about it ever since. One or two other Councilmen are planning deep revenge, according to a statement made yesterday, and an attempt will be made to compel the park board to cut eight more men off, just to get even with the Councilmen who did not lose men in the first instance.

Land Committee Acts.

At last the Land Committee has taken decisive action toward raising the acreage recently acquired by the city in the Tejunga wash, at an expense of $32,000. Yesterday afternoon notices were sent out to the ranchers in the San Fernando Valley, asking them to appear before the committee next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when some final action will be taken. When the problem of leasing the lands was referred to the committee, some weeks ago, the reference carried power to act.

Paying Bond Coupons.

"It is vital to the city's credit that some provision be made for the payment of bond coupons in the East," declared a member of the Council yesterday. The remark was caused by a letter which was received by City Treasurer Workman from the treasurer of the Meriden (Ct.) Savings Bank, in which he accuses the city of repudiating its bonds. The bonds which are held by the bank bear the statement on their face that the coupons will be paid in Los Angeles or at the First National Bank, New York, at the option of the holder. Under the State law, the city has to pay the coupons here, and this has caused much dissatisfaction in the East. Deputy Auditor Bostwick appeared before the Finance Committee yesterday morning to explain the necessity of some provision whereby the city can pay the exchange on its bond coupons. It is understood that the matter will be brought to the attention of the Council at an early day.

Visiting Commissioner.

Fire Commissioner A. G. Edwards of San Diego was in the city yesterday, and was the guest of Chief Strohm. Mr. Edwards called at the City Hall and was introduced to the Mayor and heads of departments.

Bids for Livery.

From several municipal departments comes a demand that the Council advertise for bids on a livery contract. Some time ago bids were received for such a contract, but because the man with the strongest political pull had the high bid, the Councilmen found flaws in the proposals, and rejected all the bids. Since that time the livery patronage has been distributed very unfairly, the man who had the high bid getting about $5 to the low bidder's $1. Other livery men do not regard this arrangement as fair, and strong pressure has been brought to bear on the several departments to induce a better distribution of livery hire. City Engineer Stafford yesterday requested the Finance Committee to make a call for bids, but it is not apparent that much attention will be paid to the request. While admitting that money can be saved the city under a contract, most of the Councilmen favor the present system, which enables them to distribute patronage where they like.

Milk Samples.

Milk Inspector Hood and Inspectors Sanborn and Hughes were abroad in the land yesterday, and when they returned were in possession of about twenty sample bottles of milk, which are to be tested today. There is trouble in store for the offending milkmen, since Health Officer Powers started his crusade for good milk.

DANGEROUS FUN.

Boyle Heights Youths Amuse Themselves by Stoning Houses and are Shot At.

Frank Julian was arrested on Boyle Heights last night on a charge of malicious mischief. Both he and his companions narrowly escaped being filled with shot by an irate property owner. Julian was but one of a party of six young men who started out to amuse themselves last night at the expense of their neighbors. Boyle Heights does not furnish many avenues of amusement, so this gang decided that it would be fun for them to stone residences and frighten the inmates, especially the women. They went from place to place, throwing stones on porches, and they were none too careful how many windows they broke. Five houses were stoned, and while the gang was throwing at one residence the owner appeared with a shotgun and fired at the crowd. The range was too great for the load of shot to reach them, and the boys skedaddled. They happened to run into the arms of a policeman, who was able to capture only one of them, and he was sent to the Police Station.

MUST BE SUPPORTED BY THEIR ESTATES, IF POSSIBLE.

Otherwise the State Will Gladly Maintain Them—Supreme Court Hands Down Important Decision, Upholding Present Law.

Unusual interest obtains in an opinion of the Supreme Court that reached this city yesterday with reference to the payment of the expenses of an inmate in any of the insane asylums of the State. The opinion is rendered in an appeal from an order of Judge Shaw directing the guardian of Juan Yturburru, an insane person, to pay certain amounts to the Southern California State Hospital at Highland, and for the care and support of Juan at that institution, where he is detained under a regular commitment.

Discussing the matter, the opinion, signed by Justices Henshaw and McFarland, and concurred in by Justice Temple, says:

"The only point urged by the guardian for a reversal of the order is to the effect that the law making the guardian of the estate of an insane person, where his estate is sufficient, responsible for his maintenance at a State hospital for the insane is unconstitutional.

"But this contention cannot be upheld.

"An insane person is liable for the reasonable value of things furnished to him necessary for his support. This was so at common law, where the necessaries were furnished by an individual, and we have never seen a case—and do not think any can be found—holding that this rule comes in conflict with any provision of the Constitution of this or any other State of the Union. We see no reason why the same rule should not apply to a State hospital for the insane which does and furnishes for the insane person only those things required by the law of the State. Certainly those things which are required by the law to be done and furnished for an insane person may safely be classed as necessaries.

"The contention of appellant based on the theory that these hospitals are charitable and eleemosynary institutions and should not be converted into boarding-houses finds a ready answer. It is as necessary to have institutions for the restraint of the insane, whether they be rich or poor, as it is to have prisons and almshouses; and these institutions for the insane are charitable only so far as the Legislature makes them so. There is nothing in the Constitution inhibiting laws extending charity to people in need of it; but it is not necessary to extend charity to those who are able to support themselves; indeed, it would be unreasonable to do so.

"A law in effect requiring that patients at the hospitals for the insane shall be there supported out of their own estates is wise and reasonable.

"It is not double taxation, nor taxation at all, to require a man to be supported out of his own estate. The money ordered paid herein is for the maintenance of the patient. It goes to the support of the hospital only because of the presence of the patient therein."

The concurring opinion of Justice Temple is also of interest. It follows:

"The appellant seems to think that since he was forcibly deprived of his liberty and confined in a State institution, the law will not imply a promise on his part to pay for such maintenance. Nor has he been convicted of any offense which might authorize the collection of the sum as costs by way of a penalty. It is averred that he has an estate, and under such circumstances the law provides for a guardian, if he is incompetent, who shall provide for him proper care with such degree of freedom as is compatible with his condition. Under such circumstances, it is argued, he cannot be imprisoned and deprived of such medical aid as his guardians and friends could furnish him and then be made to pay for the restraint.

"But insane have always been regarded as subject to control on the part of the State, both for their protection and for the protection of others. When the State finds it necessary to keep them in its hospitals, I see no reason why a charge may not be made for their support. If they have a right to free support, because paupers are so supported, it would seem that the balance of the community would be equally entitled."

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

PETTY THIEF. John Smith, charged with petty larceny after a prior conviction, pleaded guilty to plain larceny yesterday and was sentenced to three months in the County Jail. He has already been in jail three months awaiting trial. Smith stole a small amount of hay and seems usually to possess a sticky quality about his fingers.

BAD BOY. Charlie Hanson, a seventeen-year-old boy, whose home is with his parents at No. 856 North Figueroa street, was sent to the Whittier Reform School yesterday. The complaining witness was his father, Chris Hanson, and the mother, Anna Hanson, also testified against her boy. Charlie runs away, swears, and does all sorts of ill-mannered and wicked things.

SCOTT DIVORCE. Jennie Scott was divorced from Samuel F. Scott by Judge Conrey yesterday on the ground of desertion. Scott lived with his wife just five days.

OLD BITTERNESS. The town of Acton is stirred up again over a new outbreak of an old bitterness between W. H. Broome and N. M. Melrose. Broome runs an oil company and Melrose is a deputy postmaster. Bad blood between them has been about to culminate in blows for a long time, but a fist fight actually occurred two or three days ago. When they were separated, Broome had a black eye and Melrose a bloody nose. Broome has sworn out a complaint against Melrose, but the District-Attorney is not inclined to prosecute such a case.

AN OPEN LETTER

Addressed to Women by the Treasurer of the W.C.T.U. of Kansas City, Mrs. E. C. Smith.

"My Dear Sisters:—I believe in advocating and upholding everything that will lift up and help women, and but little use for all knowledge and learning if you have not the health to enjoy it.

"Having found by personal experience that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine of rare virtue, and having seen dozens of cures where my suffering sisters have been dragged from the depths of misery and ill-health to lives of health and usefulness from an untimely grave simply by the use of a few bottles of that Compound, I must proclaim its virtues, or I should not be doing my duty to suffering mothers and dragged-out housekeepers.

"Dear Sister, is your health poor, do you feel worn out and run down, especially do you have any of the troubles which beset our mothers? If so, my advice; let the doctors alone, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it is better than any and all doctors, for it cures where they do not."—Mrs. E. C. Smith, 1212 Oak St., Treasurer W. C. T. U., Kansas City, Mo.

MRS. E. C. SMITH.

What is left for the women of America after reading such a letter as above, but to believe. Don't some of you who are sick and miserable and wicked you are to remain so, making life a burden for yourself and friends when a cure is easily and inexpensively obtained? Don't you think you would pay to drop some of your old prejudices as Mrs. Smith says, and use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is better than all doctors for cures?" Surely, the experience of hundreds of thousands of women whom the Compound has cured should convince all women of the wisdom of taking the advice that Mrs. Smith offers in her letter above printed.

Read What Mrs. Burnham says:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Words fail to express how thankful I am for your advice, and I cannot speak too highly of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick for three years with female weakness. I had dizzy spells, headache, backache, feet and hands were cold all the time, would get tired and faint very easy. I also had dropsy and was troubled with leucorrhœa. I suffered for two weeks before each menstrual period, my ovaries would swell very badly. I took lots of medicines from doctors, but received no benefit. To please my husband I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am now a well woman, and your Compound alone did it."—Mrs. H. W. Burnham, Russell, Mich. (Jan. 31, 1901.)

Follow the record of this medicine, and remember that these floods of cures of women whose letters are constantly printed in this paper are brought about by "something else," but by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the great Woman's Remedy for Woman's ills.

Those women who refuse to accept anything else are rewarded a hundred thousand times, for they get what they want—a cure. Moral—Stick to a medicine that you know is Best. Write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, Mass., $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonials are not genuine, or were published before obtaining the writer's special consent.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

SAILOR RYAN GAVE THE JUDGE A SALUTE.

BEARER OF JIM GRAY'S BANNER WAS ARRAIGNED.

Wiers Were Fined for Disturbing the Peace of a Second-hand Store—Manuel Silva Got a Heavy Sentence for Stealing a Watch.

A. H. Ryan, who was brought up in the Police Court yesterday for interrupting the traffic on the public streets and disturbing the peace of the community, was the same Sailor Ryan who paraded the streets Thanksgiving Day with the banner of Jim Gray, but all his "sassiness" and his sailor suit were gone. Ryan was in a humbled and chastened mood.

Ryan looked to his lawyer, the El Hutch known to fame, to steer him through some old way.

Ryan helped out all he could by not losing any points in politeness.

When the judge spoke to him, Ryan hopped up and skated across to the bench with a bland and smiling air, but somewhat in doubt all the same as to the kind of a game he was going up against, and very obviously wishing he were out of it.

"Guilty or not guilty?" the judge sputtered at him.

Sailor Ryan looked as though he were ready to dodge, and eyed the judge with dark suspicion, but said nothing.

"Guilty or not guilty?" said the judge.

"I—I don't know what to say," said Ryan, casting an appealing look at Hutch.

Suddenly, Ryan remembered his manners, and looked scared at the judge. He ducked his head suddenly and made a salute with a bourish and repeated, "I don't know what to say."

But Hutch didn't either, so the case went over until 2 o'clock today, for a plea.

Row in Police Court.

Michael Spranger was fined $20 in the Police Court yesterday for raising a disturbance on a street car down by the plaza. Spranger claims that two other men were fighting and he was arrested when he was trying to stop them.

Stole a Watch.

Manuel Silva, who wormed his way into the confidence of a woman named Mrs. Schutton by pretending he wanted to hire out as cashier for a restaurant and then stole her watch, was sentenced to serve 150 days in jail by Judge Austin yesterday.

Disturbed the Peace.

Morris Wier and Fannie Wier were found guilty of disturbing the peace in Justice Austin's court yesterday. It seems that they had some trouble over a chair with the wife of a second-hand man named Weyse.

The Wiers claimed to own a part of the Weyse store, and Mrs. Weyse was in the store to claim it. There was no difficulty in getting it and Weyse rallied to the rescue. Somebody [illegible] Weyse in the fracas.

Genesis iii, 1-12: "The Call of Moses."

THE CONNECTION.

Moses was brought up in the King's court as Pharaoh's daughter's son. He became learned, popular, influential. All along he could not forget what his mother had taught him; he could not fail to feel his fellowship with his real people. Those sentiments grew with meditative power, till one day he suddenly saw that he could not cherish those sentiments and be classified with the Egyptians any longer. Two things brought on that decision—the growing power of his early training, together with the effect of his frequent visits to his mother, supposed to be only his foster mother, and the revolt of his sense of justice from the treatment his downtrodden race received from the Egyptians. That was the reproach which he seems to have received from the others about the court for being a Hebrew. In the book of Hebrews, chapter xi, there is quite a comment on Moses, which tells of the reproaches he endured. His love of his people suddenly flamed out into an unlawful and wrong deed, when he killed an Egyptian who was persecuting a Hebrew. He seems by this time to have been somewhat aware of his mission to rescue them, for the next day he attempted to settle a dispute between two Hebrews. When one of them spoke of his murderous deed, he knew it was no longer a secret, and fled. But he had chosen aright. He chose deliberately, and in his mature years; he chose when he had everything worldly to lose; he chose though the scorn of his old friends would be visited on him; he chose their lot, because God was leading him.

He went to Midian, where his great force, courage and chivalry came out in defending the daughters of the priest Jethro, one of whom he afterward married. There he lived forty years, when the call of God came to him to go and deliver his people.

THE LESSON.

I.

"Attracted to God." (Verses 1-3.)

1. Now Moses kept the flock of Jethro, his father-in-law, the priest of Midian, and he led the flock to the back side of the desert, and came to the mountain of God, even to Horeb.

2. And the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a flame of fire out of the midst of a bush; and he looked, and, behold, the bush burned with fire, and the bush was not consumed.

3. And Moses said, I will now turn aside and see this great sight, why the bush is not burnt.

The time when this took place is an important point. It was at the transition time between kings of Egypt; it was when the bondage grew so awful that the people cried aloud, and cried to God; it was when Moses had been perfectly prepared for it. God does His work through men. Moses ran before he was called, forty years before; now he is really ready. In addition to the training that enabled him to be a leader and a teacher, he now has other forms of preparation. His patience is trained by long waiting; his knowledge of men is widened; his knowledge of the country they are to pass through is now extensive and minute; his reliance on God, rather than on his own impulses or the impulses of the people is now intelligent and firm, for solitude and toil have been teaching him vital lessons; his own family life has given him a practical sympathy with men, women and children. He is now ready, though eighty years of age; he is now ready, though he is not aware of the fact that God has had him all these years in the very best schools in which to prepare, and though he has probably long ago abandoned the thought of trying to be the deliverer of his people.

It came when he was busy about his everyday, commonplace duties, as most of our calls to higher service come. It came when he felt too humble to do it, though once he seemed to feel fully competent. His shrinking humility, however, was not due to loss of interest in his people, for perhaps his heart's ache had grown more bitter as he thought of their hard bondage. It was due to mature experience and intimate acquaintance with himself.

The place where the call came was significant. It was on the farther side of the mountain from the sea, as if in that way to tell him that God was leading him and his people away from Egypt. It was on Sinai, called "the Mount of God," for God was to reveal His law to Moses on that mount, and each occurrence there would heighten the effect of the other. It was getting Moses still better acquainted with the country through which they would pass.

The form in which God came to him was physical. He case as "the angel of the Lord," and in the symbol of flame. Fire is the symbol of God because it is pure and purifying, and the source of blessing, and an appropriate symbol to one who was to be the giver of law to the people, for that law, as fire, was to be intense, and to test the quality of the people. In His manifestation to Moses God allied the symbol of His presence to a common bush, for nature is a revelation of God, and it takes on a new indestructible character when we see God in nature.

The strange phenomenon won his attention. It was not the bush, for there were many others as attractive; it was not the burning of the bush, for he had probably seen many a bush afire in the dry season; it was the flame that did not consume the bush. Moses was responsive to God's challenge. If he had not been there would have been no voice out of the bush, and no call to higher duty. It is those who follow what light they have that win the revelation and the mission and the crown.

II.

Instructed Concerning Israel." (Verses 4-15.)

4. And when the Lord saw that he turned aside to see, God called unto him out of the midst of the bush, and said, Moses, Moses. And he said, Here am I.

5. And he said, Draw not nigh hither; put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground.

6. Moreover, He said, I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob. And Moses hid his face; for he was afraid to look upon God.

7. And the Lord said, I have surely seen the affliction of my people, which are in Egypt, and have heard their cry by reason of their taskmasters; for I know their sorrows;

8. And I am come down to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that land unto a good land and a large, unto a land flowing with milk and honey; unto the place of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites.

9. Now, therefore, behold the cry of the children of Israel is come unto me; and I have also seen the oppression wherewith the Egyptians oppress them.

This instruction is given because Moses turned aside to see. "The curiosity of the intellect is in danger of becoming irreverent and obtrusive into mysteries not of the brain, and thus the voice of God must speak in solemn warning. This instruction is given to one all attentive, for in response to the call of his name, he answered promptly and anxiously. To such God still gives further revelation.

The instruction was first to the effect that this was the everlasting God speaking. The burning which did not consume the bush was symbol of the unending being of God. But Moses was dear to him because he was in the line of the loved friends of God. The effect of this was to humble Moses with fear.

Next came a revelation of God's compassion, and that was very striking. Because they are human beings He pities them in their afflictions; because they are His chosen His heart has compassion; because they have been crying out in agony under their taskmasters He knows their sorrows well. It was the compassion of Creator, Father, Ruler, Friend. To Moses this was God's first revelation of His heart.

Next is the revelation of His purpose. His purpose to deliver is based on the facts that they are His people; and they are afflicted; they have cried out for deliverance. It has its source in His tender love and sense of ownership. So far as we know, this was the first direct revelation to Moses, and it must have thrilled him with a new hope for his loved nation, and a new sense of God's presence. Moses knew that God had led Abraham from Haran into Canaan, and he knew that He could lead stricken Israel back.

He will not only deliver them from Egypt, but lead them to a land even more attractive in itself and free from tyranny. That land will be "good" in itself, and in its adaptations to their needs; it will be roomy, and not like little Goshen; it will produce abundance, and that, too, of the very best things—"flowing with milk and honey;" it is a land well known for the people already living there, and for its fertility. Then God renews the statement that He feels for them in their afflictions. All of this revealed to Moses God's everlastingness, His personal choice of this people; His tender interest in them, and His loving plans for them.

III.

"Commissioned to Deliver Israel." (Verses 10-15.)

10. Come now therefore, and I will send thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring forth my people, the children of Israel, out of Egypt.

11. And Moses said unto God, Who am I, that I should go unto Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt?

12. And He said, Certainly I will be with thee; and this shall be a token unto thee, that I have sent thee: When thou hast brought forth the people out of Egypt ye shall serve God upon this mountain.

The call was a surprise to Moses because he had failed in his first attempt to help them, had now been detached from them for forty years, and had grown into a shrinking humility in his solitude and old age. He thought of his unworthiness; he thought of his inability to show them who commissioned him; he thought of how the people would not believe him; he thought of how impotent he was compared with Pharaoh. He was accustomed to a quiet life, and had not much enthusiasm left for such a stormy, strenuous life as would be required in the task.

But that does not disqualify him; on the contrary, shows the temper capable of the task. With God's insistence, He gives a promise to be with him, and that meant everything to Moses. The proof of the promise would be given in His bringing the people right along there where they were talking, so that they would worship in that mountain. That promise was fulfilled a few months later, when Moses and the ransomed people halted right there on their way to the promised land, and worshiped God and received the commandments.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

We learn the folly of deeming that the intellect and its inquiries are at war with religion and its mysteries, that revelation is at strife with mental insight, that he who most stupidly refuses to "see the great sights" is the best entitled to interpret the voice of God. When the man of science gives ear to voices not of earth, and the man of God eyes and interest for the divine wonders which surround us, many a discord will be harmonized. With the revival of classical learning came the reformation.—Chadwick.

"For the place whereon thou standest is holy ground." It had been made holy by the manifestation of the divine presence. The natural and instinctive way for the Oriental to show his appreciation of this fact was the removal of his sandals, or covering of the feet. The Bedouin of today, as well as the ordinary Moslem traveler, at the hour of prayer turns his face toward the holy city, Mecca, and slipping off his shoes, says his prayers upon the desert sands, regarding the spot as holy ground, consecrated by the act of prayer. It is probable that this uncovering of the feet upon holy ground was already familiar to Moses. It was kept up in the succeeding ages of Jewish history. The Jewish priests are said to have performed their sacred services without sandals. Also in times of mourning or great grief the sandals were removed.—[Long.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Comments on the uniform prayer-meeting topics of the Christian Endeavor Societies, the Epworth Leagues, the Baptist Young People's Unions, etc.

By William T. Ellis.

Topic for December 1: "Children of God."—[Rom. viii, 14-17.

In his speech on Mars Hill Paul quoted the pagan poet, who declared that all men are the children of God. The thought is not new—at least, not in the limited sense in which it was understood by the Jews and pagans. For, by creation, all men are God's children. He made them, and over them He exercises providential care. More than that, He has a father's solicitude that all of His offspring should realize for themselves the best life. This much of divine Fatherhood is the common heritage of all men everywhere.

All men, though, do not mean the same to God. For most men—this is the universe's saddest story—are in rebellion against God. His sons by creation turned their faces from Him, but of that number many have shown themselves sorry for this sin, and have become children of the heavenly Father by reconciliation and adoption. God's family, as the term is now used in a religious sense, comprises not all humanity, but those who have accepted the Father's love for themselves, and have yielded Him their own love in return.

The children of God must be godly.

Here is a terse definition of the children of God: "As many as are led by the spirit of God, these are the sons of God." This is the proof of sonship—obedience to the divine will. On no other terms can we enter God's family. And the first sign of obedience is acceptance of the Great Elder Brother as our Savior and Lord.

The children of God should be brothers of men.

In this country we do not believe in an aristocracy. Nevertheless, wherever men live together there is bound to be an aristocracy of ability, an aristocracy of intellect, or an aristocracy of goodness and benevolence. This latter, it may be remarked in passing, is the best means of promoting true democracy. Now, what the royal family is, in a monarchy, by virtue of birth, Christians are, in any land, by virtue of their new birth into the family of the King of Kings. They are set apart, a peculiar people—peculiar for their humility, for their purity of life, for their deeds of helpfulness and for their spirit of love toward all men. Thus it is required of the children of God that they live royal lives.

The children of God should not disgrace the family name.

The King's children have high privileges.

Gossips have found many rich morsels to roll under their tongues in the bickerings and jealousies that exist in official society at the national Capitol over the matters of social precedence. Contrary to the teaching of the parable, each seems to seek for himself the highest place, and there have been quarrels without number over the question of social and official distinctions. That Mrs. A. goes out to dinner ahead of Mrs. B. is likely to inaugurate a social war. This spectacle is a common one everywhere; men and women are seeking petty honors, as if they were the bread of life. How insignificant this mad chase is, when we consider what little thought these same people give to the pursuit of true honor! For "whosoever will" may enter the family of the King of Kings, securing advantages innumerable here, and glory unspeakable through the long eternity.

The child of God should grow up into the likeness of God.

God's children are heirs to Christ before they become heirs with Christ.

When shall we be done with libeling the Christian life? We speak of it in terms of hardship, as something to be endured with fortitude. Our testimonies are oftener than not, pitched in a minor key. We whine about "trials" and "burdens" in a way that is an insult to heaven. Religion means privilege and liberty and power, and peace and joy. It is not bondage, but adoption into the family of God. We do not wear a chain, we claim a crown. It is not into slavery that we have entered, but into the royal life of children of the Highest, and brothers of Jesus Christ. The children of God should be—yes, and are—the sunniest, happiest and freest of all mortals.

While living here below we should remember that we have been born from above.

It is a principle of civil law, that in matters of inheritance, the claims of the children come first. The children are by nature and law the father's heirs. So the Bible speaks of the children of the kingdom as "heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ." This is one of the privileges of adoption. We are heirs to heaven, and heirs to the nature and power of God.

Some of the family traits of children of God are love, joy, peace, long-suffering, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, meekness and self-control.

The first requirement of a child is that he be obedient.

TO ENFORCE THE LAW.

Bicycles Must Be Equipped With Bells and Rooming-house Keepers Must Provide Registers for Guests.

Orders have been issued to the police to strictly enforce the ordinance requiring wheelmen to carry bells on their bicycles.

"Hardly a day passes," said Capt. Bradish last night, "but what we receive reports of injury to pedestrians by careless wheelmen, and we have learned that but little attention is now paid to the bell ordinance. For a time after that ordinance was adopted every wheelman in the city secured bells, but many of them have been discarded. The orders to the police are to arrest all riders who do not comply with the ordinance. It will be an easy matter to inspect the hundreds of wheels which line the curbs in the business center of the city, and where wheels are found without bells they will be watched until their owners appear and then arrests will be made. It is just as much a violation of the law to have a bell which will not ring as it is to have no bell.

"Another ordinance marked for strict enforcement is that requiring proprietors of lodging and rooming-houses to keep registers of their guests. The law says that all such places must have a book in which occupants of rooms must register, and the penalty for not having such a register is severe. These registers are open to the inspection of members of the police force. Many of the owners of the cheap rooming-houses are not complying with this law, and from now on we will arrest all such and keep on arresting them until the law is obeyed."

KNOCKED DOWN AND ROBBED.

Fred Verdugo Relieved of Watch and Money by Two Thugs on Alameda Street Near First.

A bold robbery, the first of the kind in many weeks, was committed at 6 o'clock last night on Alameda street, between First and Requena. The victim was Fred Verdugo, whose home is at Verdugo Park, his father being the owner of a large ranch and much other property.

Verdugo has been working for the Salt Lake Railroad, and yesterday afternoon started for home after an absence of several days. He went to the Commercial-street depot of the Southern Pacific to take the overland train, but was told that that train does not stop there, and that he must go to the Arcade depot to board it. He had plenty of time and started to walk south on Alameda street toward the Arcade depot. Near the corner of Requena street a spur switch from the main track crosses the sidewalk and enters a warehouse. Just as Verdugo passed the warehouse he heard persons approaching from behind, but did not look back to see who they were. Then he heard a man say to another, "Now, give it to him," and the next instant somebody struck him a terrible blow behind the left ear with some blunt instrument.

The victim of the robbers dropped on his face, his head striking one of the rails of the railroad switch. He was in a semi-conscious condition and remembers that one of the men sprang upon his back and seized him by the throat, while the other searched his pockets. The thieves secured $18 and a watch. They then ran north on Alameda street and disappeared. Verdugo was found a short time after the robbery by several men, who were returning from work, and the police were notified. The injured man was taken to the Receiving Hospital. The wound on the back of his head did not break the skin, but was very painful. There was a long gash under the right eye, where Verdugo's face had struck the steel rail, and marks of one of the robbers' hands was on his throat. He stated that he did not see his assailants and therefore could give no description of them. He thinks there were two men, but he is not sure there were not three.

TURNED OUT TO DIE.

Ah Keong Was Turned Out in the Streets in the Last Stages of Consumption.

Poor Ah Keong was in the last stages of consumption, so they turned him out of the little Chinese hospital to die on the streets.

Yesterday he was found wandering forlornly around the little lane called Ferguson alley. Hardly wandering, for he had barely strength enough to stand up. A white man found him, and attempted to remonstrate with the heartless Chinamen, to their evident astonishment.

"Him die sure," they said, and couldn't see why he should be kept in the hospital any longer.

The Associated Charities was appealed to, and arrangements were made to have the Chinaman taken to the County Hospital.

BABES MAY CRY AT THE SAD NEWS.

THE PRICE OF CONDENSED MILK LIKELY TO BE ADVANCED.

Principal Producers are Engaged in Organization of a Trust That May Take in All the Leading Concerns of the World.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A. M.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—According to the Journal of Commerce the Borden Condensed Milk Company whose capital stock heretofore has been $20,000,000, all common, of which $17,500,000 has, it is understood, been issued, intends to issue $3,750,000 preferred stock. This new issue of preferred stock is being made for the purpose of absorbing several concerns which are now competitors of the Borden company.

It is understood that the Borden concern is anxious to advance the price of the product inasmuch as the cost of the raw material and tin cans has increased. Considerable reticence is observed by all interested in the new deal. Rumor, however, connects the names of several concerns with the proposed combination. The Cory Condensed Milk Company, and the Wisconsin Condensed Milk Company are prominently mentioned as among the concerns likely to enter. Others also mentioned are the Mohawk Company and the Walker Borden Laboratory Company, but a denial came from the former and nothing could be learned from the latter.

The New York Condensed Milk Company is still another corporation rumored as going into the combine, but it is believed that practically all the stock of this concern is already owned by the Borden Condensed Milk Company.

The combine may possibly assume an international character, as condensed milk is exported, and there are some important companies on the other side. It is learned that the Borden Condensed Milk Company some time ago was seeking control of a London plant that turns out a large amount of the product. The proposed increase in capital of $3,750,000 in the shape of preferred stock is believed to be only the prelude to a still larger increase in the future.

Charles Evilsizer, the Marshal at Dubois, Ill., and Henry Cameron of Ashley fought a pistol duel at a ball there Thursday night. Evilsizer receiving three wounds and Cameron four. Both will probably die. The shooting was the result of a quarrel over a woman.

Those Humors

That Make You Break Out.

Are growing worse.

Their effects are not only external.

They weaken all the organs and functions—commonly most of all the stomach and the digestive processes—and affect your whole system.

You can get rid of them.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA radically and permanently removes all humors, cures all their effects, and establishes the conditions of health.

Accept no substitute.

"I gave Hood's Sarsaparilla to my little girl for scrofula sores with good results. When she had taken little over one bottle the sores were all healed and she was feeling all right." Mrs. Annie E. King, Alvaretta, Okla.

"I take pleasure in pronouncing Hood's Sarsaparilla a grand medicine. One bottle cured my baby boy of an eruption on his hands. Watery blisters would form and then turn yellow, and they were very painful, and the child could not sleep at night, owing to the pain. He began to improve from the first dose of Hood's Sarsaparilla." Mrs. Bell Cardwell, Laurel and McClellan sts., Fort Worth, Texas.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

DUTCH TAKE ANOTHER ONE.

Looloos Did not Hit Chimmy Whalen.

Stanford and Indians to Kick Today.

Skeeters Defeat the Cripples—Basket Ball Game Today. Golf Events.

Dutchmen, 6; Looloos, 4.

The visitors did not need the assistance of Umpire Harper to win yesterday's ball game, for they got in on their merits. Chimmy Whalen, de pride of Brannan street, handed out the ball for the Dutch and surprised himself at the good game he pitched. Oscar Jones was in the box for the locals, and was hit so frequently that the team behind him had no difficulty in losing. The Looloos made a bunch of bungles at the wrong time, which largely assisted them in losing, and if there had not happened the Dutch could not have won. Spies did not catch for the locals on account of a telegram received yesterday from President Moran of the State league which suspended him for an indefinite period.

In the first chance for the Dutch Nordyke singled past third, stole second on Atherton's muff of the ball and scored on Schwarts's double to the score board. All their other runs were made in the fifth inning on three hits and a lot of Looloo errors.

In that round Graham hit over second, but was forced on Whalen's bunt. Nordyke doubled to right, advancing Chimmy to third. Wilson hit an easy one to Hall, who threw to the plate to catch Whalen, but he scored because Dummy dropped the ball, Nordyke going to third and scoring a moment later on Hildebrand's safe bunt to Hutch at first, which he stupidly held. Schwarts flew to Householder and after the catch Wilson ran to third and Hildebrand to second. Both scored on Pabst's hit to Hall, who juggled and then threw wild to the plate, the ball passing Dummy. Pabst reached third on this and tallied on Atherton's fumble of Brockhoff's hit.

The locals got their first in the seventh on Householder's base on balls and Hall's hit to right field, which sent Eddie to third. He scored after Hildebrand's catch of Reilly's fly. The other three came in the ninth inning.

Householder bounced one to Schwartz and beat it out by sliding. He stole second easily and surprised the crowd by rushing to third while Whalen had the ball in his hands. Dummy then flew to Pabst and Hall drew a pass to first. Reilly flew to Pabst and Householder scored after the catch. Bowman got a base on balls and advanced on Jones's hit to short field. Hutch then sent a hot one to Schwartz, who fumbled it long enough for Hall and Bowman to score. The score:

ALL-AMERICANS WIN.

NATIONALS LACKED PRACTICE.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 29.—The contest between the National League and All-Americans baseball teams was full of interest from start to finish, but owing to the fact that the grounds were wet and slippery and the make-up of the National League team showed lack of practice, as did "Jay" Hughes, the score stood All-Americans 10; National League, 3.

Waddell's work in the box was a revelation, as was Steinfeld's wing work and Barrett's fielding.

CRIPPLES LOSE AS USUAL.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—The Sacramento baseball players defeated the Oaklands at Recreation Park today by a score of 7 to 3. They batted Schmidt off the slab and then Waterbury was called in to tame them, which he did till they were as peaceful as lambs. The Sacramentos made nine of their hits off Schmidt in the first four innings, but in the last four innings Waterbury kept them down to two hits and not a man could get across the plate. The score:

Crack Team From Perris Expected to Give the Northern Collegians a Lively Tussle—Game Should Furnish Excitement and Sport.

Having defeated the All-Southern California picked team, the Stanford eleven will today meet the crack team of the Perris Indian school at Fiesta Park. It is confidently expected that they will give Stanford a lively tussle, and the game should be worth seeing. The Indians average about 165 pounds to the man, stripped, and can run the ends or buck the line as good as any team in this part of the country.

Game will be called at 2:30 o'clock, with the following line-up:

THE TIMES MAGAZINE the coming Sunday will be without a rival in interest for readers of Southern California and the Southwest.

Athletic League.

Representatives from the various schools and colleges in this vicinity met last night and adopted, with a few modifications, the draft of a set of rules submitted at a previous meeting for the organization of an amateur athletic league. St. Vincent, Throop, Los Angeles High School and Commercial High School, Occidental, U.S.C. and Pomona were represented. The rules provide for a general board of control to consist of one student and one faculty member from each institution of learning, and this board of control will meet December 14 to prefect organization. The name adopted was that of the Southern California Athletic League.

Minor Baseball.

The Inglewood baseball team beat the Palms nine at Inglewood on Thanksgiving Day by a score of 15 to 8.

The "We Boys" and the "Yokefellows," two classes of the First Methodist Sunday-school, played a match game of ball Thanksgiving afternoon, and the Yokefellows won by 36 to 18.

SAVING OF ANTHRACITE.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—No more foreign orders for anthracite are to be accepted by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company for the present, as to supply them would seriously interfere with meeting the demand for home consumption. The present low rates for European points are principally accountable for the large foreign demand.

MR. RALPH BINGHAM.

PHILADELPHIA (Pa.) Sept. 11, 1901.
Gentlemen: In my work as a monologist, singer and entertainer, I frequently find the strain on my throat so exhausting as to practically make it impossible for me to continue without resorting to a tonic. A long lecture often leaves me with a very sore and hoarse throat, and at such times I find DR. BULL'S COUGH SYRUP simply invaluable as a soother and strengthener. So much do I think of this remedy that I am never at home without a bottle of it, and on my tours through the country I never fail to include DR. BULL'S COUGH SYRUP in my grip. In fact, it is as essential to my success as are my songs, stories or violin. Very truly yours, RALPH BINGHAM.

Be sure you get Dr. Bull's, the one that cures. See that the "Bull's Head" is on the package. All reliable druggists sell it. Large bottles, 25c. Refuse substitutes and cheap imitations; they do not cure and are injurious. SMALL DOSE—PLEASANT TO TAKE.

I have worn a plate ever since 18 years old. Have had gold and three different dentists, and none of the plate made by Dr. Schiffman is the best I have had, and is perfect in every respect. MISS IDA SHERMAN, 649 S. Hope.

I had my upper and lower teeth filled by Dr. Schiffman without pain, and have since had an upper and lower plate made and they fit fine. The best is that it is with difficulty that I can tell them. I cannot speak too highly of Schiffman and his work, and advise anyone needing work done to call on him. MRS. E. J. KING, 349 W. 30th.

I wish to state that Dr. Schiffman extracted my teeth without the slightest pain or unpleasant after-results, and has fitted me with a full set of teeth which are just splendid—satisfactory in every way—and I can use them as well as I could my natural ones. W. M. HAMMOND, 820 Pasadena Ave.

It gives me pleasure to state that Dr. Schiffman extracted fourteen teeth for me without the slightest pain, and inserted quickly and the set of new plates he made for me gave perfect satisfaction from the first, and after several months' wear are seemingly fast and as good as new. J. W. SANBORN, 332 Temple St.

Flexible Rubber Plates

Have many advantages over the old thick, cumbersome ordinary plates, and even over gold plates are lighter and thinner. These plates are flexible, only a trifle thicker than writing paper, fit closer and are better to the roof of the mouth. Particles of food and small seeds cannot get under them. They will last longer, are stronger than any others, and will not break unless they will give first. Method used in Schiffman's own process, and made only by us.

I am using Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught and I feel like a different woman already. I am going to continue using your medicines and am now advising every suffering woman to use them. Several ladies here keep the medicines in their homes all the time. I have three girls and they are using it with me. Mrs. KATE BROWDER.

The coming of womanhood is the great functional crisis of a woman's life. Mothers who recall their own experiences will make every effort to see that their daughters meet it right. Girls who have the benefit of at the age of puberty, develop into healthy, attractive women. The Wine helps a girl to form correct menstrual habits, and upon her early menstrual habits depends the health she will have for all her life. It relieves her of headache and backache and irregular periods, so common at this time. Under its soothing influence she quietly adds the dignity of womanhood to the freshness and charm of girlhood with no shock to her sensitive system. For every trying crisis in a woman's life Wine of Cardui is the medicine to use. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

Stanton Depot, Tenn., June 8, 1900.

I want to return you a thousand thanks for what Wine of Cardui has done for my daughter. She is up and all right. After four month's treatment the doctors had done her no good. She fell in weight from 125 to 102 pounds. Now she weighs more than ever. She is taking the wine yet but she has only used six bottles. MATTHEW TAYLOR.

ACTIVE BARLEY MARKET. The unusually heavy demand for our barley this season is proving a source of wonder to grain men. Shipments during the early part of the season were held back owing to the strike, but since the settlement the outward movement has been remarkably rapid. From the 1st of June to the present time the exports have been 63,314 tons in excess of the exports during the corresponding time in 1900.—[San Francisco Commercial News.

LINSEED OIL. The price of linseed oil at the East is 4 cents lower.

BOSTON SHOE AND LEATHER MARKET. Factories on the better grades of men's wear will have little opportunity to take account of stock during the continued pressure of orders for winter goods and necessity of immediate shipments on spring stock. The continued firmness of prices has a tendency to restrict jobbers in buying to very conservative lines, says Bradstreet's, but wherever a buyer can find a favorable price he does not hesitate to make the best of it.

There is no material change in the leather market. The between-season dullness is not so marked as many expected. A good business is booked every day, largely now in covering orders on spring goods as fast as received. There is a better demand for lighter leathers; this may be alleged to two causes; first, the fact that summer goods naturally are supposed to be lighter, but probably more especially for the reason that heavy leathers are scarce and high. Hides are a trifle easier, and market becoming more favorable to buyers.

Shoe shipments for the week, as compiled by Shoe and Leather Reporter, are as follows: Total for the week, 96,036 cases; last week, 105,665 cases; same week last year, 75,772 cases. Total for the year, 4,370,529 cases; same period last year, 3,830,523 cases; increase, 540,006 cases.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

THE RAISIN INDUSTRY. According to the Crop Reporter of the Agricultural Department the average annual consumption of raisins in the United States for the past five years has been about 80,000,000 pounds, or not far from one pound per capita of population. Practically the total supply was produced in this country. In England the average annual consumption is upward of five pounds per capita, and the total supply is imported from southern Europe.

Evidently the average rate of consumption in the United States is not important, but the raisin industry of this country forms a subject of considerable interest, because virtually the entire consumptive demand, which was formerly met wholly by importation, is now supplied by the single State of California, the only raisin-producing State in the Union.

It is well known that no variety of native American grape has yet been developed suitable for the preparation of raisins. Over twenty-five years ago choice varieties of vines of the raisin grape were introduced into California from Spain, the country from which almost our entire imports of raisins were derived. The industry did not at once assume commercial proportions, but it is notable that so early as 1885, i. e., in the crop year ended September 1, 1885, the effects of increased production in California began to be shown in a decrease of imports. In the fiscal year 1885-86 imports declined to 40,387,946 pounds, from 53,702,220 pounds only two years previous. Production in California, on the other hand, began in that year to assume commercial proportions for the first time, and amounted to 9,400,000 pounds, against 2,500,000 pounds in the previous year.

The impetus given to the industry at this time was never relaxed; production increased by leaps and bounds, until in the crop year ended September 1, 1895, the high-record mark was reached of 103,000,000 pounds. Naturally the effect upon imports of this remarkable increase in production was very marked, and in the fiscal year 1894-95 they had fallen to 15,921,278 pounds.

Since 1894 the production of raisins in California has declined, but this, it is claimed, has been due to adverse climatic conditions and not to any decrease of interest in the industry. Production, however, has been almost equal to the demand, and, although imports have not wholly ceased, they are practically offset by exports of California raisins, which are now sent in small and, it may be said, experimental quantities to all parts of the world.

The following statement, giving the production of raisins in California from 1886 to 1901, and the imports into all ports of the United States for the same year, illustrates how effectively that State has gradually monopolized the raisin trade of this country:

Years.	Production crop ended Sept. 1. Pounds.	Imports year ended June 30. Pounds.
1886	9,400,000	40,387,946
1887	14,080,000	40,673,288
1888	16,000,000	40,476,763
1889	19,000,000	35,091,129
1890	25,000,000	36,914,220
1891	33,000,000	39,572,655
1892	82,000,000	20,687,640
1893	57,000,000	25,543,563
1894	85,000,000	13,751,050
1895	103,000,000	15,921,278
1896	91,360,000	16,826,694
1897	62,250,000	12,650,598
1898	53,704,000	6,582,823
1899	80,631,000	4,823,201
1900	71,562,000	10,309,425
1901	†67,000,000	2,960,612

*Commercial estimate. †Preliminary estimate.

Exports of California raisins first became of sufficient importance to be separately stated in the official reports of the Treasury Department in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1898, and since that date the exports have been as follows:

Year ended June 30—	Pounds.
1898	3,109,539
1899	4,659,507
1900	2,415,456
1901	2,530,164

The raisin-producing section of California comprises ten counties—Fresno, Kern, Kings, Madera, Merced, Orange, San Bernardino, San Diego, Tulare and Yolo. It is estimated by some authorities that as many as 64,000 acres are devoted to the cultivation of the raisin grape in these counties. The city of Fresno, which is known throughout California as "the Raisin City," is the center of a section which produces about two-thirds of the entire output of the State. Eight months of sunshine and an abundance of water for irrigation make of this one of the ideal grape-producing sections of the world.

CITRUS-FRUIT SHIPMENTS. There were shipped from Southern California Wednesday and Thursday, 61 carloads of oranges and 30 of lemons. The total shipments for the season, November 1, 1901, to date, are 490 carloads, of which 194 were lemons.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKETS.

Potatoes are very firm. The supply of Salinas is nearly exhausted. They would cost to lay down now so much that the margin of profit to jobbers at present prices would be exceedingly small.

Onions are firm. Choice Oregons cost so much that present prices are very close.

Thirty carloads of lemons, sixty-one of oranges in two days is a lively movement for this time of year. Prices are very firm.

There is an active demand for feed barley and prices are very firm. Stocks are becoming conceptrated.

Butter is steady and local cheese firm.

Eggs are very firm. Fresh ranch are scarce, and the lay-down cost of eastern fresh is higher. Cold storage stock is being rapidly drawn upon.

Poultry is quiet after the holiday, turkeys being in no demand at all. Stocks of live birds cleaned up well.

Beans are firm.

There are no further changes reported in cured meats or lard.

STATE OF TRADE.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade tomorrow will say that a general advance in the price of pig iron indicates that record-breaking activity at furnaces fails to produce accumulation of supplies. The feature among the minor metals was the sharp advance in tin to much the highest point of the year, because of delayed arrivals. In marked contrast to the rise in tin was a sharp decline in silver to the lowest price since early in 1898. Shoeshops at the East are fully employed, while western producers were never before so actively engaged. Wheat held firmly, closing the week more than 3c above the price a year ago, which is most satisfactory in view of the vast increase in yield. Receipts at the interior are liberal, 6,250,442 bushels, against 2,901,795 last year, but the gain on the foreign buying is still the feature, exports from all ports of the United States in five days aggregating 2,575,510 bushels, compared with 2,539,670 a year ago. Failures for the week numbered 192 in the United States against 223 last year.

Bradstreet's Review.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say that from now on, retail, rather than wholesale demand, will attract most attention. Colder weather and snow would, however, benefit Northwestern trade and industry, though the open weather prevailing has enabled more than ordinarily complete farming preparations and extended building activity. Accompanying the improvements of the tone in trade, there has been a broadening and deepening of speculation in leading food staples, and, all in all, there is a rather more cheerful feeling prevailing. No sign of the usual seasonable quieting-down in the demand for iron and steel is apparent, and buyers are as eager as ever to obtain supplies. The strength of the coarser grains, corn and oats, has been the sustaining feature to wheat, which might otherwise have receded on large Northwestern receipts and a heavy increase in the visible supply. A resume of the world's cereal food supply shows a shrinkage this year of 1,054,000,000 bushels, as compared with last year. Provisions are showing exceptional strength, due to shorts covering and reported heavy buying by packers. Hog receipts are large, but their weights are light, and this accounts for the relatively greater advance in lard.

Bank Clearings.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The following table, compiled by Bradstreet, shows the bank clearings at the principal cities for the week ended November 28, with the percentage of increase and decrease, as compared with the corresponding week last year:

	Amount.	Per ct. Inc.	Per ct. Dec.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Amalgamated Copper was again an unsettling influence in the whole stock market today. Its coupon was put forward, the decline being punctuated by only a few points of resistance and by no effective rally. The resistance was not long maintained at any time, and the price was frequently allowed to go lower. Toward the end of the day, the price touched 75, an extreme decline of 5⅝, and closed only a shade better. There was no appearance of any attempt to support the stock, and it was left to take its course. The demoralization in the raw copper market in London was the impelling cause of the decline. There were enormous sales of copper for spot and for future delivery, resulting in a decline in the price of the former of £3 per ton and in the latter of £4 per ton. The stocks of all copper securities scored violent declines in foreign markets, and the prices of metals slumped all around in London, including pig tin, lead and iron. Anaconda fell three points in sympathy with Amalgamated. The rumors were persistent as to the determination on the part of the company to abandon the attempt to sustain the price of spot copper, but no official admission could be secured on the subject. The final decision adjudging a dissolution of the company guilty of contempt of court for failure to testify in the suit against the absorption of the Boston and Montana was possibly a subsidiary cause of the weakness. The demoralization of Amalgamated Copper was without notable effect in the general market until near the close. There were a number of strong points developed, due to individual cause, and the market was inclined to harden all around on the published forecast of a favorable bank statement, but the final drop in the copper stocks caused the rest of the principal gains and carried prices a point or more below last night for Union Pacific, Atchison, Missouri Pacific, York Central and Baltimore and Ohio. Sugar was at one time more than two points higher, but lost practically all of the gain. Other gains of a point or over were shown at one time by the United States Steel stocks, several minor steel stocks, St. Paul, Wabash preferred, Reading, Louisville, Manhattan and several of the industrials. The Pacific Coast stocks were all strong, advances of two to four points being scored. Owing to the Thanksgiving holiday, the figures furnished by the banks of cash changes show results only up to Wednesday night. But the movement of cash from the interior was clearly in favor of this center, and indicates a net gain by banks on the express movement of upward of a million dollars, which more than offsets the losses on subtreasury operations. The drafts against arrivals of gold at San Francisco, which are on the way to the amount of nearly $4,000,000, have not figured in the week's showing. The government's revenue requirements upon the money market show a distinct relaxation, the month's receipts thus far falling over a million below those of last year, while the expenditures are several hundred thousand dollars in excess of those for the corresponding period of last year. The bond market generally was irregular. Total sales, $4,130,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

The New York support given to Chesapeake and Ohio, the Reading issues and United States Steel rallied the American department, which closed firm. GENERAL EASTERN MARKETS

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Improved cables started a spurt of buying at the opening of the wheat market today. Receipts, however, especially in the Northwest, were heavy, and tended to offset the foreign strength. December opened irregular, ⅛ to ¼ up, at 72⅜ to 72⅝@72¼. Soon a good commission-house demand sprang up, and the outside markets reported good advances over prices here. Heavy professional buying began, the short line in particular, and prices advanced steadily, December closing strong, 1 cent higher, at 73⅜. Corn had a broad, strong market, though not so active as wheat. December closed 7/8@1 cent higher than Wednesday's close at 57⅜@57⅝. Aided by corn strength, December oats opened ⅛ higher, and closed steady, ⅛ higher, at the opening price, 47⅜. Provisions sold up well from the start, making liberal gains in everything. January pork closed 27½ up; January lard, 12½ higher; January ribs, 17½ up.

The leading futures closed as follows:

New York Metal Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Activity and excitement prevailed in circles abroad yesterday and today. Liquidation in a large way resulted in a net loss of £3 15s. on spot and £5 on futures since Wednesday's close, thus the former finished the day at £113, and the latter at £106 15s. with the market weak. Locally, the market was unsettled at 28.00@21.50. The arrival of several steamers with liberal cargoes of tin, broke the corner, and resulted in the decline noted above. Copper on London also suffered a severe setback, values declining £7 10s. since Wednesday under bear hammering and liquidation. The close found spot quoted at £57 10s. and futures at £58. At New York, however, the market was quiet and unchanged. Lead at London declined 2s. 6d. to £11 1s. 2½., while at New York the market was dull and unchanged. Spelter was unchanged at home and abroad. Iron was unchanged, but steady.

LIGHTS OF SANTA ANA PUT OUT WITH WIRE.

MALICIOUS PERSON CUTS OFF THE WHOLE SYSTEM.

Mail Thief Sentenced to the County Jail for Ninety Days—Successful Ball Given by Local Military Company Thanksgiving Night.

SANTA ANA, Nov. 29.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] The electric lights went out again last night all over the city, but the company is not to blame. The manager, suspecting that some individual might be responsible for the trouble, started an investigation. On Santa Clara avenue, near Main street, it was found that the entire system south of Puente had been short-circuited with a piece of baling wire. The wire had a heavy stick on one end, which had been thrown over the light wires, after the other end of the baling wire had been fastened to the lower end of the pole. The release of this wire put the system in operation. The management believes the law plan was carried out by a person who wished to cause the company damage and annoyance. A thorough investigation will be made.

SANTA PAULA.

UNFORTUNATE MINISTER.

SANTA PAULA, Nov. 29.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] Rev. L. M. Andrews, for several years pastor of the local Universalist Church, wandered from his home between midnight and this morning, while in a state of delirium, and was found by a searching party hiding in a barn. The unfortunate man's mind was evidently affected, for he told the searchers that he knew they were looking for him, but that he had been to several adjacent towns during the night. Rev. Mr. Andrews has been ill, and his friends believe his mental derangement is only a temporary result. He was formerly a prominent lawyer in an Ohio town. His son is practicing law in Los Angeles. About three years ago Rev. Mr. Andrews retired from the pastorate of the local Universalist Church and has since devoted his time more or less to legal studies. He probably will recover the full use of his mental faculties.

The case has been amicably adjusted out of court, the company agreeing to widen the curve.

Coronation Coinage.

The dies for the coronation coinage having been approved by the King, are now in preparation by the authorities of the mint. The exact date of issue cannot at present be stated, but all the new currency will be issued before that great ceremony takes place. One side of the coins will bear a miniature of His Majesty, devoid of elaboration, with inscription; the details of the reverse are still under consideration for approval by the King. When the dies are made and the first coins struck they will be submitted for His Majesty's final approval. If no alteration of the designs is then commanded, the coinage will be struck and issued for circulation. Hundreds of tons of gold and silver will be required for the new currency. Some idea of the amount may be conveyed by assuming the adult population of the United Kingdom to be 15,000,000; it would require 200 tons of gold to coin a sovereign for each; similarly adding half a crown, a florin, shilling, and sixpenny piece together, and taking the common weight, it would require 600 tons of silver ingots to provide each person with one of these coins. It is probable that the three-penny piece will be retained, but whether any new coin will be issued to commemorate the coronation cannot now be stated.—[Pall Mall Gazette.

MINES AND MINING ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

BOSTON CAPITAL INVESTED IN GLOBE DISTRICT, ARIZONA.

Treatise on California's Deep Placer Mines—Sensational Strike in Nevada. Report on the Papago—Rand District. Mining Notes.

There is a large amount of Boston capital invested in mining properties in Globe district, Gila county, Ariz., and late reports from there, as also from Boston, indicate that a very considerable additional amount of money will be invested by Boston people in Globe copper properties. The Old Dominion copper mines, one of the most extensive properties in the Globe district, are chiefly owned in Boston, as are also the properties of the Arizona Commercial Company. N. L. Amster of Boston, consulting engineer of the latter company, spent several weeks lately in an examination of the Copper Hill mine, one of that company's group, and in an account of the result of his investigations, printed in the Silver Belt of Globe, expresses himself highly satisfied with the progress made in developing the property and what development of it shows. At the 400-foot level the ore bodies show expansion, and a drift, now in over 130 feet, is being run, with the intention of continuing it to the Cochise claim, a distance of about 900 feet from the shaft. Mr. Amster has returned to Boston, but during his stay at Globe he bonded the Great Eastern group of copper claims, and has put men at work on it. He also secured an extension of the bond on the Newman claims, near Troy, and work on that property will be resumed just as soon as some necessary additional machinery is on the ground. As Mr. Amster is, in these matters, acting as representative of Boston capitalists, it is evident that the latter are firm believers in the ore bodies of the Globe district.

CALIFORNIA'S PLACER MINES.

Henry G. Hanks, F.G.S., San Francisco, has issued a brochure of some sixteen pages, giving a most interesting account, with illustrations, of the deep-lying auriferous gravels and table mountains of California. As stated by the author, his object in the publication of the paper is not to disprove the opinions of others, but to record some of the results of his study of a very interesting subject, and to possibly add something to a controversy still claiming the attention of geologists. He at once proceeds to state that the placer-gold mines of California are by nature divided into two general classes—the shallow and the deep. The former were first discovered and worked; when the gold crop diminished, prospecting tunnels were driven into low table mountains, revealing extensive and rich deposits, and a new system called "drift mining" followed. Some of these adit levels were more than a mile in extent. In many cases shafts were sunk from the surface several hundred feet in depth, from the bottom of which tunnels were driven in search of gold. These tables, as the author further states, cover strata of undoubted sediments, varying in texture from boulders weighing eighty tons to silts so finely divided that they will not wholly settle in still water for several days. These are "the auriferous gravels" described by Prof. Whitney and others. Since the discovery of gold in them they have been called "deep placers," in contradistinction to "shallow," or "surface placers," and have remained intact under these table mountains since the time of their placement. Elsewhere, not so protected, they have been subjected to more recent vicissitudes of nature, uncovered in some places, and in others buried; crosscut by cañons, born of mountain torrents, shifted and disturbed many times, until they have somewhat lost their original character, resulting in the shallow placers, from which so vast an amount of gold has been gathered by panning, ground sluicing, and by hydraulic mining. Mr. Hanks then cites a number of instances of mining in California in substantiation of his assertion of the existence of deep placer-mining ground as well as of the shallow places.

ARIZONA MINES.

The Copper Era of Clifton reports the discovery of nickel ore in the Hobson claim, one of the Home Copper Company's properties. It considers the discovery of some importance, as there is said to be an abundance of the ore.

The Florence Blade says: "The Mammoth cyanide plant has enough tailings on hand to keep the plant busy for four months from date. It is probable that the Mammoth mill will be started before that time elapses and will furnish enough new tailings to keep the cyanide plant in steady operation."

J. H. Sample, one of the owners of the high-blue turquoise mines in Mineral Park, reports much activity in that district. Superintendent Hass has had built two large rain-water reservoirs at his turquoise mines, and he is now putting up a boarding-house and quarters for workmen at the mine.

The Phelps Company, Cripple Creek people who recently purchased the Good Hope mine in the Hassayampa district, and who have been actively developing the property, have been rewarded, as stated in the Prescott Prospect, with splendid results. In a 100-foot tunnel a rich body of gold ore has recently been encountered. Mr. Phelps is reported as saying that he is located in the Cripple Creek district of Arizona.

It is reported from Tucson that the Columbia Copper Company of St. Louis has purchased sixteen copper claims in Gila county, and will erect a concentrating plant of a daily capacity of fifty tons, and install a gasoline hoisting engine. A shaft is down 254 feet, with levels at 100 and 200 feet, the shafts and drifts being in sulphide ore averaging about 5 per cent. in copper. There is also a cross-cut tunnel 440 feet in length, which lacks about 100 feet of reaching the vein.

The Chittenden concentrating plant, in the Saddle Mountains, near Dudleyville, Pinal county, has been started up again.

Capt. J. D. Burgess of Tucson is arranging to erect a 60-ton smelter at Calabasas, to reduce ores from his Montrose mine in the Josephine Cañon, Santa Rita Mountains, Santa Cruz county, and a number of other mines in that vicinity which are becoming ore producers.

Floyd B. Wilson, president of the Arizona Gold and Copper Company, writes from New York that it is the intention of that corporation to push work to the utmost and get the smelter at Patagonia, Santa Cruz county, in operation at the earliest possible time, and to keep it running constantly upon ores from their own and other mines in the Santa Rita Moutains. The object of the extensive sampling works at Patagonia, now in course of construction, is to facilitate that work.

The Wickenburg News-Herald states that A. H. Gamage of the Denver Group Company, will let a contract for 200 feet of work on the tunnel, which is already in 280 feet. A good deal of work is to be done on the property. A well has been sunk, which at a depth of 35 feet furnishes an abundant supply of water. Lumber is on the ground for the construction of the necessary buildings.

NEVADA.

The Silver State of Winnemucca prints the following: "A most sensational strike has been made in the Stone Cabin claim at Tonopah, where a strike of $400 ore has been made at a depth of six feet below the collar of the shaft. This is the claim in which Judge Dickson and other Salt Lake parties are interested."

The Daily Mining Record of Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "The local syndicate owning the Clark group of copper claims, in the Peavine mining district, Nevada, has received samples of ore taken across three feet of the vein at a depth of 100 feet. Tests of the ore gave the following returns: Gold, .21 ounce; silver, 26½ ounces; copper, 20.6 per cent.; value $37.26 a ton. The company is very well pleased with the results and has decided to immediately sink the shaft another lift of 100 feet. The copper ledge outcrops on the surface for several feet, and is a distinguishing feature of the surface indications. The company proposes to develop the mine through the shaft, and may later extend the tunnel, which is in already 500 feet."

A report from Independence, Cal., says: "An extra train of nineteen carloads of Tonopah ore was shipped north last week. Nine carloads came from Candelaria and ten carloads from Soda. This is in addition to the large shipments by regular trains. This ore goes to San Francisco and thence by water to Everett, Wash."

THE PAPAGO.

Superintendent C. H. Cox has sent to the Los Angeles office of the Papago Mining Company a report on the Gold Standard, one of the company's gold claims at Camp Dulce, Yuma county, Ariz., from which the following is extracted: "I find on the Gold Standard and Golden Wonder a continuous, permanent and well-defined ledge for the entire length of these claims (Gold Link, Legal Tender, Gold Standard and Golden Wonder,) with a uniform dip of 70 deg. It is a quartz ledge proper, but I find in the strata and through the quartz calc-spar with gothitz, a brown hemotite (hematite anhyorous oxide of iron.) I have seen considerable gold in the ore, but would suppose the principal values would be found in the haematite. The pay ledge averages about three feet wide, with a strong tendency of a widening in depth; between walls the ledge is from 2½ feet on top to 8 feet at the present bottom of the shaft. At the juncture of the fissures and all along the northwest I find in the ledge mixed with quartz, a heavy carbonate of lead, also copper stains, oxide of lead; the lead, I understand, is very rich in gold and silver. At this particular place, which is 400 feet long, and is the junction of these figures, the values are increased and other minerals added."

Assays of ore from the Gold Standard show: Shaft No. 2 at 50 feet depth, gold, $23.15; silver, 49 cents per ton. At 80 feet in shaft No. 1, gold, $31; silver, 84 cents per ton.

RAND DISTRICT.

The Barstow mill is again running, with ore enough to keep it busy for some time. Among ore receipts are some from the Bagdad mines, some from Mojave, Searchlight and Johannesburg.

A five-stamp mill is being built at the Llewellyn Iron Works, Los Angeles, for the Phoenix mine, near Johannesburg. The mill will be constructed so as to admit of the addition of five more stamps, making it a ten-stamp mill. It will be equipped with all the latest improvements for saving gold.

E. H. Stagg, general manager of the Bagdad mines, has purchased in Los Angeles two gasoline engines and two electric drills for use at those properties.

MINING NOTES.

The Continental group in Northern Idaho has been sold to Duluth capitalists for $225,000.

The Mining Record of Colorado Springs says the Elkton Consolidated Gold Mining Company has sold its immense dump of tailings for $225,000.

The old Copper World mine in San Bernardino county, Cal., has again commenced work on both the mines and the smelter at Valley Wells.

A report from Rawlings, Wyo., says: "The Haggerty-Jordan Mining Company has paid the final installment of $51,000 on the Vulcan group of mines in the Grand Encampment district."

The Russian Peasantry.

The British Consul-General at St. Petersburgh concludes his latest report by saying that although forty years have now passed since the emancipation of the Russian serfs, and much has been done during this period to improve the material well-being of the agricultural classes, their condition in most parts of the empire causes serious apprehension. Among the measures adopted in favor of the peasantry were the abolition of the poll tax, diminution, partial remission and postponement of the annual redemption payments, establishment of the Peasants' Bank, encouragement of migration, and the like; but the advantages conferred by a diminution of direct exactions were neutralized to a great extent by an increase in indirect taxes on articles of primary necessity for the peasant, the customs duties having been gradually raised for the benefit of the manufacturing classes.

The main causes of the growing impoverishment of the peasantry of European Russia are the heavy burden of taxation which, in the form of redemption and other dues, still falls on the peasants' allotments of land, which do not yield sufficient to meet the charges levied on them; the insufficiency of these allotments; the communal system of land tenure and joint responsibility of the members of a commune for payment of direct taxes; the frequent failure of harvests, with recurrence of famines, consequent on the gradual exhaustion of the soil and diminution of cattle; and, last, though not least, the unenlightened condition of the rural population of Russia proper, which prevents them from utilising their land in a manner more profitable and less exhaustive than that at present pursued. Although arrears of the redemption tax to large amounts have from time to time been remitted, they show no signs of abatement in their growth. Since 1861, the year of emancipation, the government spent over £95,000,000 in redeeming land from the proprietors and £9,500,000 acres were thus acquired by nearly 90,000 communes. The arrears in the payment of the redemption tax amounted to over £11,000,000.—[London Times.

Diseases of Men
Dr. Harrison & Co.
Cures Varicocele in Five Days

We treat every form of weakness, blood taint, contracted diseases of a private nature, kidney and bladder troubles. These conditions are brought on mainly by chronic contracted disorders, social dissipation and excesses.

Why Old Chronic Disorders Are Not Cured by the Treatment Usually Employed.

In the more chronic cases of urethral trouble we find spots, patches and areas of inflamed surface, due to neglected and badly treated conditions, which have become ulcerated and are the sources of continual annoyance and irritation.

The first essential in the treatment of these cases is to locate the trouble and to determine its nature and to ascertain if there is superficial ulceration and thickening of the walls of the canal, which is a mass of diseased tissue, producing disordered function of the organ. By the direct application of our local treatment we remove and cure these conditions in a few treatments.

We especially invite cases that do not yield to other methods of treatment. Fees arranged to suit convenience of patients.

PASADENA BRIDGE WILL BE NARROW.

FIFTY-TWO-FOOT SPAN HAS BEEN CHOSEN.

Electric Railway's Steel Structure Is to Be Built—Throop Institute Building Lots—Death of A. F. Keyes—North Pasadena Improvements.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, 24 South Raymond avenue, Nov. 29.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] The "Bridge of Sighs," which there was so much argument in the Council Chamber and out of it a few weeks ago, will be built right away now, at the foot of Raymond HIll, and it will be fifty-two feet wide. The promoters of the 100-foot bridge, the South Pasadena Councilmen, the Raymond Improvement Company and the management of the new Raymond Hotel, all strove to have the bridge built eighty-two feet across, so that vehicles could be better accommodated, but Manager W. H. Smith of the electric road said today that the bridge will be only fifty-two feet. He says that the opposition to the narrow bridge did not understand the situation at first; now they understand how matters stand, and, it seems, have given up the fight for the wide bridge. Lumber has been unloaded for the preliminary construction. The bridge itself will be of steel. The contract was let some time ago, and it was not till after all arrangements for the narrow bridge had been made that the parties desiring the 82-foot bridge made their complaint to the Council. They claimed that the electric railway company had promised that the bridge would be eighty-two feet wide. The only thing now that can prevent the narrow bridge being built is for the Council to deny a permit for the approaches, the bridge itself being outside the jurisdiction of the city.

HORSES HAVE GRIP.

Though Pasadena has not been so severely afflicted by epizootic, influenza or grip as Los Angeles, still a number of horses have been taken with the disease, and some of them had to be shot on account of the severity of the attack and of complications of other diseases which ensued. Dr. Ward B. Rowland, dairy inspector, said tonight that he thinks the worst of the trouble is past. Many beasts are seized with coughing and running at the nose, and are "off their feed" for a few days, but their attacks amount to nothing more. In other cases pneumonia, pleurisy and bowel trouble come along with the grip, just as is the case with human beings, and that makes it more serious. The disease is contagious.

OBEYED ORDERS.

The Chief of Police had several small boys on the carpet this afternoon, and delivered to them a lecture upon the dangers of air-guns. One boy was shot near the eye. He said he was walking along the street, minding his business, when an organized squad of youngsters held him up and shot him with a spy." The boy owned the shooting that caused the trouble, because called upon for an explanation, and the captain told him to shoot, and could not disobey orders.

THROOP BUYS REALTY.

For several weeks past Throop Institute has been negotiating the purchase of several lots on Chestnut street, between Fair Oaks avenue and Raymond avenue, just across the street from the institute buildings. There were numerous reports as to these purchases, which were made quietly. It was rumored that the Battle Creek Sanitarium people intended to use the property, that it was being procured by the city for park purposes, and that the electric railway company was going to place shops there. Even the owners who made the sales did not know till a few days ago who the purchasers are. WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Friday Morning Club.

Edgar W. Camp attempted to answer for the Friday Morning Club, yesterday, the question: "What is the Liberty of the Press?" With this subject he had been asked to introduce a discussion of the Chinese Exclusion Act, and a portion of his address was, accordingly, devoted to the latter topic. He said, in part:

"The man who incites to a crime is as much guilty as the man who commits the crime, and the law has different ways of recognizing this fact. In this State it is a crime to write or send a challenge, a crime to bribe or to offer to bribe a juryman, and in other States it is a crime to circulate a newspaper devoted to scandal. In England the common law made it a crime to advocate an act that was a crime, whether the act followed or not. Lincoln put the case strongly, when he asked: 'Must I shoot the simple-minded soldier boy that deserts, and must I not touch a hair of the wily agitator that induced him to desert?' The code of California lacks the salutary rule of England's law; I cannot find on the books that there is any law which makes it a crime to instigate a crime, unless the act followed and can be connected with the instigation as effect with cause. New York has the same lack which California lacks, and Johann Most, through its instrumentality, has twice been permitted to serve terms of imprisonment. We ought to use our utmost endeavors to cause a law to be passed which will make not only the instigation of the crime of assassinating a public officer, but of other crimes of violence, lynching, the beating of women, destruction of property, etc., a crime.

"But beyond cases of direct instigation, many practical difficulties arise in the enforcement of laws restricting freedom of speech. Formerly in England and in this country it was the law and the practice not only to punish instigators of such crimes, but to punish calumniation or merciless excoriations of the Governor; but this law has long ceased to be enforced, as it proved to be too difficult to draw the line between criticism and calumniation, and too difficult to find the men to draw the line impartially. Against some of the instigators to crime under these old laws the State has proved itself to be almost powerless.

"But the law is not the only power in human society. You remember the contest of skill between Richard of England and Saladin, as related in 'The Talisman.' After Richard had exhibited the splendid strength of his arm in wielding his great sword, Saladin cast into the air a scarf of gossamer, finer than spider's web, and while it hung poised, divided it with his slender Damascus blade. The law is Richard's sword—a great, two-handed engine, fit for fighting many foes, but almost powerless against the elusive, subtle forces of thought. The correction of many sorts of license of speech must be left to the subtle but powerful weapon of public opinion. In spite of great abuse of liberty, liberty is for us the only safeguard. The French philosopher says, in substance: 'In a free government, it is not necessary that men reason well, it is enough that they reason; in time the truth will be recognized.'"

Turning to the question of Chinese immigration, Mr. Camp began with Prof. Shaler's definition of a democracy as a country where men are not only equal before the law, but have an essential unity of motive and aspiration, and where not all necessarily vote, but those who vote fairly represent the whole population, and he asked the pertinent question: "Who now votes for the negro? Who fairly represents him? In as far as California harbors a Chinese population, she ceases to be a democracy. Multiply our Chinese population by ten, and we should have here an oligarchy, an arbitrary rule of the yellow man by the white, as in some parts of the country we have the rule of the black man by the white. And we should have a repetition of the high-handed, insolent methods of dealing with the Chinese element that is found where a large negro population is absolutely ruled by the white man. We may see something of it in this city today. Where does the Chinaman get the same treatment as a white man? Nowhere. From the police? It would be folly to expect it. From the children on the street? Not at all. The condition of affairs with a large Chinese element would be more disastrous to the white man than to the Chinese; it would undermine his character. There are a great many arguments against the admission of the Chinese; I have mentioned only one, but that a vital one. There are a large number of people in the East who honestly believe that the only reason the Californians have against the admission of the Chinese is one of race prejudice. I think we should show them clearly that this is not the case by giving them the more vital objections, such as this. However much the Chinaman may desire to be Americanized, he cannot do it, for he has different ideals, different customs, different beliefs.

"This or other objections apply to some of our immigrants other than the Chinese. Many of our immigrants have no training to fit them for the reception of democratic ideas. The vote in the hands of such men is a can of nitro-glycerine, with a fuse attached, in the hands of a child. Liberty is not a matter of a country's constitution; the people who will consent to oppression will be oppressed. If the Philippines had been left to themselves, three years ago, no democracy that was established would have lasted; there would have come forward some strong man able to enforce government with his fists. Many of the immigrants who come to us come from nations who have never known free government and are unfit for its conditions. A democratic society requires a high order of manhood."

The speaker here cited the large percentage of ignorant and unskilled workmen entering this country, and the large percentage of foreign-born citizens or natives born of foreign parentage found, even in Massachusetts, and characterized the easy optimism of a certain class of men with regard to this element in our population as foolish. "This class," he remarked, "was well represented by Henry Ward Beecher, when he said, 'The ox eats grass, but the ox does not turn into grass, the grass turns into ox.' But many a good ox has gone to grass by eating too much grass or a little musty hay. And no ox spends all its time eating; every ox spends a great deal of time chewing the cud. Possibly the time may come when it will be well for this nation when to chew the cud a little."

The greatest causes of our over-large immigration Mr. Camp found in the activity of the steamship companies through their agents and in the desire of some of the large employers of labor for cheap hands. This last cause, in itself, he found to involve the introduction of an undemocratic element into our national life through the retirement of American-born citizens from the ranks of the unskilled laborers, and the creation, thus, of a strong class distinction. He advised the restriction of the number of immigrants allowed to each ship, and a further educational test. In the discussion that followed his address, answering the question whether stricter naturalization laws and a lengthening of the period of residence necessary to naturalization might not correct the present and the threatened evils, with the remark that it was easy enough to make good laws on this subject, but that there had proved to be practical difficulties in the way of getting them enforced. "Our motto should be," said he, in conclusion, "not that of the Know-Nothings, 'America for Americans!' but 'America for the best of the race!' Then we shall have a real democracy—a people swept by one great public opinion, moved as the forest trees move by the wind, together; touched by the same sorrows and exalted by the same hopes."

SEVEN TO ONE

Sometimes the weight goes up that way when taking Scott's Emulsion. Seven pounds of new, healthy flesh from a one pound bottle of Scott's Emulsion is on record.

Scott's Emulsion brings everything to its aid; good appetite, strong digestion, rich blood, new body strength, and above all the power to get all the good out of ordinary food.

For those who are in need of more flesh there is nothing better. Thin folks—try it!

We'll send you a little to try, if you like. SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl street, New York.

CAUSE OF DEAFNESS.

The Most Common Cause Only Recently Discovered.

It has been stated on good medical authority that nine-tenths of cases of deafness are caused from catarrh or from sore throat trouble.

The little tube which leads to the ear from the throat is lined with a sort of velvety structure called mucous membrane. This membrane is simply a continuation of the mucous membrane lining the throat. When disease of any sort attacks the mucous membrane of the throat it is very liable to extend into the Eustachian tube and up into the ear.

The history of nearly all cases of deafness is like this: A cold is contracted and neglected, other colds are taken, the throat becomes sore and inflamed, which is agravated by particles of dust and germs from the air. This condition causes the disease to spread into the tube that leads to the ear.

It seems a little far fetched to say that most cases of deafness are caused from catarrh, but it is certainly true, and anyone who has had a severe catarrhal cold must have noticed how the hearing was affected while the cold lasted.

With catarrh sufferers this impairment of hearing becomes chronic and grows worse the longer the catarrh is neglected.

You can cure catarrh and deafness by the regular use of an excellent new preparation called Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, composed of antiseptic remedies which act both on the mucous membranes but principally and most effectually on the blood, eliminating the catarrh alpoison from the system.

People whose hearing is defective may think it a little remarkable that a simple and harmless tablet would very often remove all traces of deafness, but when it is remembered that catarrh causes the deafness and that the catarrh is easily cured by the regular use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets there is no mystery about it.

If you are subject to nasal catarrh or catarrh of throat, bronchial tubes or catarrh of stomach and liver, the safest and most effective treatment is the new catarrh specific, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, sold by all druggists at 50 cents for full sized package.

Ministerial Combine.

The Southern California Ministerial Association of the Christian Church will hold the December meeting on Monday in the Y.M.C.A. rooms. The forenoon will be taken up with reports from churches. In the afternoon D. A. Wagner will read a paper, to be followed by discussion.

Nielson Was Insane.

The Coroner held an inquest yesterday on the body of N. Chris Nielson, who committed suicide in a South Spring-street lodging-house Wednesday night by shooting himself through the heart. Several witnesses testified that for several days the deceased had acted strangely. The jury returned a verdict of death by suicide while temporarily insane.

Recovered the Wheel.

Clyde Allison, aged 11 years, whose mother was deserted by her husband and who is compelled to work hard to support herself and family, was arrested yesterday on a charge of grand larceny. He is accused of the theft of a bicycle. The wheel was recovered. It is probable that the boy will be placed in some institution where he will be cared for, as the arresting officers have learned that he has the reputation of being a good boy.

Laurel Leaves and Berries.

Bright red laurel berries and bunches of shiny green leaves are being brought to the city in large quantities by school children and others who find the beautiful decorative material in the hills and cañons surrounding Los Angeles. It is specially abundant on the foothills near the Arroyo between this city and Pasadena. The laurel berries and leaves are considered superior in beauty and lasting qualities to holly, which is so popular at holiday-time.

December Weather.

Data compiled by the local forecast official of the Weather Bureau, covering a period of twenty-four years, show the mean December temperature in Los Angeles to be 56 deg. The warmest month was in 1896, with an average of 61 deg.; coldest, 1884 and 1891, average, 53 deg.; highest temperature, December 29, 1897, 89 deg.; lowest, December 14, 1878, 30 deg. The average precipitation for the month is 2.98 inches, but in December, 1899, 15.80 inches fell, and in December, 1900, there was but a trace.

Forest Reserve.

The local United States Land Office has received word by mail from Washington concerning the delay in the expected opening of the desert land on the San Jacinto forest reserve. No new dates have yet been decided upon, but it is probable that the lands will not be thrown open to settlement before March 1. The suspension of publication of the San Diego Tribune caused the delay. It went out of print on the date on which the advertisement of the lands was to appear in its columns. Sixty days' notice in a certain number of designated newspapers is required by law, and under the circumstances this regulation could not be complied with by January 22, the original date.

Bold Burglar's Work.

The operations of a daring burglar were reported to the detectives yesterday by S. M. Cupp, an employe of the Los Angeles Railway Company. He is obliged to leave his home, corner Twentieth street and Stanford avenue, to go to his work every morning before 5 o'clock, and usually prepares his own breakfast, leaving his wife and daughter asleep. After his departure yesterday morning a burglar, who is thought to be familiar with Cupp's movements, broke into the house and made a thorough search for valuables Closets were emptied of their contents, trunks turned over on the floor, dresser drawers taken out and their contents dumped in piles on the floor, and in every room except that occupied by Mrs. Cupp this kind of search was made. The thief secured only an old silver watch and $5, the other valuables belonging to the family being secreted in Mrs. Cupp's room. Mrs. Cupp did not hear the thief and learned of the burglary only when she saw the effects of his work.

Sunset Club.

It was Japanese night at the Sunset Club meeting last evening. Levy had provided a menu printed in Japanese and English, Japanese and American flags and Japanese lanterns decorated the banquet hall. W. C. Patterson, who recently made a trip to the land of the Mikado with his wife and daughter, read an entertaining paper on "Japan as Seen By a Sunsetter," and was followed by Adachi Kinnosuké, a guest of the club, with a well-rendered address on "Japan as Seen By a Japanese," in the course of which he sought to correct some prevailing misapprehensions as to the attitude of Japan toward other nations. The attendance at the dinner was larger than it has been for many months, forty-eight members being seated around the tables. The following newly-elected members of the club were introduced: W. G. Barnwell, Sam T. Clover, N. P. Conrey, James S. Cravens, Rev. G. T. Dowling, James A. Foshay and Dr. E. R. Smith.
